

UNION BUTCHERS WALK OUT OF SHOPS, IN THREE CITIES

Proprietors Are Forced to Cut Their Own Meat--Oakland Wholesalers Waiting to Hear From San Francisco.

What promises to become a meat famine in the city was inaugurated this morning when between 300 and 400 meat choppers, drivers and slaughterers of the city and at the Stockyards walked out. Today most of the retail shops of the city were open, but in only a few instances was meat delivered. The only way in which to secure meat was to go or send after it and to wait about the shops until the proprietor or his limited non-union help could serve one. The strike was conducted quietly and during the morning the men were notified that the wholesale butchers, at whom the strike was directed, would hold a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the offices of Miller & Lux in San Francisco, and would then decide whether they would accede to the demands or to fight the matter out.

Cause of Strike.

The trouble between the butchers and their employers has been of several days standing. The men asked for a shorter day, not going to work until 6 o'clock instead of 5 o'clock in the mornings and closing at 5 o'clock in the afternoons. They also demanded that the shops be closed at 9 instead of 10 o'clock on Saturday evenings. After considerable parleying every demand was acceded to and things went along smoothly for several days. The men, however, had demanded that the bosses sign an agreement to that effect and that they display the union card. This many of the bosses refused to do, and last Friday evening it was decided to strike at noon Saturday unless the proprietors of shops and of the slaughter houses at the Stockyards signed the agreement.

The First Strike.

By noon Saturday the proprietors of all of the large shops of the city had agreed to unionize their shops. The exceptions were Newhall and Burdick. The wholesale men, however, held out and the men employed by Grayson, Owens & Co., the Western Meat Company, the Oakland Meat Company and Slater walked out. John Stewart signed the agreement but refused to display the card, and today his men walked out, leaving F. Cumis & Co. the only union wholesalers at the Stockyards.

Yesterday it was rumored that the wholesalers had threatened to refuse to deliver meat to union shops and a meeting of the Butchers' Union was hastily called. It was then decided that, in order to make the strike more effective, it would be well to order a strike in the retail shops. That action was taken; hence, the trouble of today.

The Trouble Today.

All the men appeared at their respective places of employment at 6 o'clock this morning, but five minutes later, upon learning that the wholesalers were obstinate they laid aside their aprons and knives, saws and axes and walked out. The action was general and by 6:15 o'clock not a union man was working at the Stockyards nor in the city. The proprietors were for a time at their wits ends to know what to do with their customers' demands, but the proprietors in almost every case took up the aprons and tools that had been discarded by the men and went to work. In this manner those who called for their meat could, with some difficulty be supplied and it was not an uncommon thing to see a hotel man or a restaurant keeper struggling under a heavily laden basket of beef. They could not send their employees who belonged to other unions for fear of complicating matters and perhaps cause another uprising.

Scene at Becker's.

Most of the strikers assembled in front of Becker's market on Washington street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, and all day long there was a crowd of curious and those interested in front of the place. The sidewalk was crowded and Patrolman Nick Williams had to be re-inforced by Patrolman Nedderman in order to keep a clear passageway.

The men appeared at Becker's promptly at 6 o'clock but, after handling some of his beef, walked out ten minutes later. For a time the shop was closed but later Becker appeared, donned an apron and went to work. It was the first time he had cut any meat in twenty years, but he worked with a will and with the assistance of a couple of cash boys and two strangers who asked for work, he was able to serve the hotel and restaurant men who were depending upon him for their day's meat. He did not attempt to deliver meat to serve his regular retail customers.

Becker's other two large shops remained closed throughout the day.

Strikers Amused.

The sight of Becker at work furnished considerable amusement for the strikers, most of whom were congregated in front of the shop or in their headquarters in Becker's Hall overhead.

"I like to see that," said one of them as Becker appeared, struggling under a huge beef and perspiring freely. "Becker has watched me work for twenty years, and it's fun to stand around in my best suit of clothes and see him do a little 'hard graft'."

The remark was greeted with laughter and the men then turned their attention to the proprietor of Wilson's market next door. He had left his doors open and was attempting to serve unaided the fifteen or twenty women who were clamoring for meat. He was made the target for all sorts of repartee and epigrams, but he took it all good naturedly.

At Other Shops.

The smaller shops were not so seriously inconvenienced and some of them carried on their regular business. At the Cookley Brothers' shop on Fourteenth street one of the brothers did the inside work and the other attended to the outside orders.

At Henry Steinbeck's Crystal Market on Telegraph avenue the shop was kept open and Steinbeck and a non-union employee cut the meat, while the bookkeeper did the delivering.

At Vincents market on lower Washington street the proprietor attended to the customers who appeared, but made no attempt to deliver orders.

At almost all the shops non-union men were eagerly sought, but they were not to be found except in small numbers.

Becker's Statement.

"I agreed to display the union card Saturday," said Becker, as he mopped his perspiring brow and rested for a second against a block, "but the men promised me that they would handle my cattle. I had already got in 100 head of cattle Friday, and with such assurances of the men I bought fifty hogs Saturday. They have broken their agreement and I have discarded their union card."

"I do not anticipate trouble from the meat spelling for a week or perhaps two weeks, and in the meantime I will try to secure a new crew. I have already telegraphed to San Francisco and Los Angeles for men, and I will telegraph East if necessary. There is no fear of the wholesalers giving in if they commence the fight, and I therefore laid in a stock of union meat to guard against this difficulty, but the men went back on their word and refused to handle even union meat. Had it not been for their assurances I would not have signed their agreement Saturday."

What Wholesalers Say.

I. C. Lewis, vice president of Grayson, Owen & Co., wholesale butchers, was seen just as he returned from the stock yards, where he had been assisting in slaughtering beef.

"The strike at the stock yards occurred Saturday," said he, "and since that time we have been rushing to slaughter and serve customers. We have succeeded by working ourselves and by hiring any one we could find to assist. You may say that we have been doing our regular business with the assistance of non-union men."

"We conceded every demand of the men as far as hours and time were concerned and none of our men had any complaint to make except that we would not display the union card nor sign the agreement that they submitted. Some of our men had been with us for years and were considered a part of the business, and we would have conceded a great deal to avoid the strike."

Afraid of Card.

"In regard to the union card, we objected to it mainly because we did not know where it would lead us. If we signed now and accepted their dictation, we did not know what might happen to us a year from now."

"No one can tell to what this strike may bring us, but there has been no talk of a meat trust and heretofore there has been no sort of combination among the wholesalers. We have been dealing in a free and open market."

"What action will be taken at the meeting of the Wholesale Butchers' Association is, of course, merely a matter of conjecture, but if the San Francisco dealers will stand by us we have no fear for the result. We are now serving meat to all who order it, regardless of the card, but when they receive meat from us, it being non-union meat, makes the shop a non-union shop and the card becomes meaningless."

A Banker's Views.

Thomas Prather, president of the Union National Bank, in speaking of the butchers' walkout this morning said: "It would not be right for me to discuss the features of the case, because I am not in that business. The strike is to be regretted, but I think the good sense of both parties will bring them to some amicable arrangement."

The Men Determined.

"We are convinced that the money interests have combined against us to try to break our union," said Secretary Douglas of the Butchers' Union today, "and we have therefore ordered the strike for self-protection. We demand that the wholesale shops, as well as the retail shops, shall be unionized, and until this is done we will make a determined fight. The union is composed of from 300 to 400 determined men, who demand justice at the hands of the employers. It is a question of capital against labor, and we believe that labor will win."

Half-hour bulletins from the stock yards were received during the day at the union headquarters.

In Suburban Towns.

BERKELEY, June 10.—All the union butchers employed in the Berkeley and Alameda shops walked out this morning in accordance with a resolution passed by their union last evening.

The strike was brought about on account of the fact that the local retailers buy their meat from wholesale butchers who refuse to display union cards in their places of business.

All the Alameda shops are open, but the union men are cut and the proprietors have to do the work.

STILL STRIKING ALL

ALONG THE LINE.

After the big butchers' strike which was inaugurated today the principal topic of discussion at labor headquarters was the sympathetic strike of molders at the Oakland and Judson Iron Works. The machinists at those two institutions have been on a strike for some time, and last week the apprentices followed them out of sympathy. Friday, in accordance with orders from the national headquarters of the Iron Molders and Core Makers' Association, the molders walked out. They have no grievance of their own, but are in sympathy with the machinists.

At the Oakland Iron Works between twenty-five and thirty iron molders and between fifteen and twenty molders' apprentices walked out and a smaller number followed, their example at the Judson Works.

Saturday night at the Troy Laundry fifteen of the workers walked out. They had previously threatened to take that action, but the proprietors had acceded to all their demands. There were six non-union employees in the place, however, and when the proprietors refused to discharge them a walkout was ordered.

OFFICER IS KILLED

BY THE INSURGENTS.

DEPUTY CORONER ORDERED AWAY FROM HOME.

Cannot Hold an Inquest on the Boy Who Was Burned.

SINGULAR SITUATION IN COLLEGE TOWN.

BERKELEY, June 10.—The citizens of Berkeley are considerably excited over the failure of Deputy Coroner Streightif to hold an inquest over the remains of Wirt Allen, the 8-year-old deaf mute who was so horribly burned to death at the Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind at Berkeley Saturday.

The deputy's failure is due to the fact that the institution is under quarantine for smallpox and the officials will neither allow him to enter the place to take testimony nor allow the witnesses to leave the place.

In the meantime George Hoffman, the attendant whose carelessness in smoking cigarettes while bathing the child in alcohol caused the sad accident, is at the institution, but it is feared that he may escape.

Deputy Coroner Streightif went to the Institute today to subpoena witnesses, but he was met at the gate by an attendant, who ordered him not to enter. He sought Health Officer Rowell, who explained that the building was under quarantine by order of the State Board of Health. Streightif had then no other alternative than to postpone the inquest indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen of Winters, Solano county, the parents of the child, are heartbroken by their bereavement, and they will take the remains to Winters tomorrow for burial. To a TRIBUNE reporter Mr. Allen today stated that he would not proceed against the careless attendant, but would await the action of the coroner's jury. It is feared that Hoffman, in the meantime, may become frightened and escape, which he could do at any time by leaping over the fence.

Today Deputy Coroner Streightif swore in the following jury to sit upon the case: Francis Farris, T. F. Smith, J. C. Fitzpatrick, W. H. Driggs, E. E. Underwood, W. T. Gillman, S. J. Hill, Oliver Youngs, C. H. Kirtledge, Leo Rogers, C. H. Townsend, Samuel Morehead.

DEWEY WILL GO TO BUFFALO.

President Will Be Unable to Attend Exercises at the Exposition.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Although President McKinley has been compelled to abandon his visit to the Buffalo Exposition next Thursday by reason of the serious illness of Mrs. McKinley, the program arranged for that day, which has been designated as Presidents' day, will be carried out so far as possible in his absence.

A number of officials from this city will participate, including Admiral Dewey and Lieutenant-General Miles. It is understood that General Miles will deliver an address at the exposition on the celebration of Flag Day next Friday.

MINISTER SAYS IT WAS JOKE.

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—Rev. Arthur Hallam, of Santa Monica, whose simultaneous arrest and reported drowning induced the authorities to suspect a plot to defraud the insurance companies has turned up again at Santa Monica, and says the whole escapade was a practical joke. The story that there was a heavy insurance on his life is said to be without foundation.

The Rev. Hallam declares that he instigated Boatman Brown to spread the report of his death and then disappeared with the intention of starting his congregation of St. Augustine-by-the-Sea, by rising from the dead, as it were, on Sunday and appearing suddenly in their midst. Hallam has only been in Santa Monica since last August. He has lived at Coronado and claims to have been an Episcopal minister in India for sixteen years.

UNCLE SAM CANNOT JOIN THE POWERS

Gives Notice That We Will Not Take Part in the Guarantee.

CHINA MUST STAND FOR ITS OWN DEBT.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Government has formally communicated to the Foreign Powers the impossibility of joining in a joint guarantee for the payment of the Chinese indemnity. The difficulties in the way of such an arrangement are set forth in the communication, particularly those relating to the constitutional restrictions on the President in making a joint guarantee of this character. In view of the determination of the United States not to be a party to a joint guarantee, there is anxiety in diplomatic circles as to the outcome of the question of indemnities. One view is that the majority of the Powers, being favorable to a joint guaranty, will execute this joint instrument and thereafter carry on a concert of their own. In that event, it is said, the United States would arrange directly with China as to the American portion of the indemnity. The representatives of most of the Powers that resort to the Hague tribunal as proposed by the United States would be acceptable to their governments.

MYSTERY OF WOMAN'S HEAD IS NOT SOLVED.

LOWELL, Mass., June 10.—No solution of the mystery of the unknown woman whose headless body was found yesterday in the Chelmsford Center wood has been reached. The report of the medical examiner was to the effect that the head was severed from the body by a sharp instrument, that the woman had been dead for several weeks, and that a hole under the arm may have been made by a bullet. The woman was probably 30 years old.

MULES WERE HOISTED OUT OF THE SHAFT.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 10.—The fire which broke out in No. 4 slope of the Luke Fidler colliery Saturday morning ignited several large bodies of gas last night, causing the flames to spread so rapidly that the fire was beyond control this morning. OUR SOLDIERS ATTACKED BY INSURGENTS.

Two Good Officers Lost Their Lives in the Battle.

TWO HUNDRED REBELS ARE DRIVEN BACK.

MANILA, June 10.—The enemy encountered by Captain Wilhelm of the Twenty-first Infantry, with fifty men of that regiment, were met six miles southeast of Lipa, in Batangas province, and consisted of more than 200 of Malvar's followers, supposedly the command of Gonzales. The insurgents were defeated, but their losses have not been reported. Yates' troop of the First Cavalry is pursuing them. During the engagement Lieutenant Anton Springer of the Twenty-first Infantry was shot in the head and killed. Lieutenant Lee of the Engineers was shot in the head and bowels and soon died. Captain Wilhelm was wounded in the shoulder and Lieutenant Charles R. Ramsay of the Twenty-first Infantry was shot in the left side. Both of these officers are seriously wounded. In addition two sergeants were seriously wounded and one private was wounded.

The American officers were planning to attack a force of the insurgents which was ahead of them when they were fired on from one side. The Washington tariff decision has been received by the United States Philippine Commission, but the commissioners are unable to say yet whether the result will require a continuance of military government. The conditions offered to General Calles, the insurgent leader in Laguna province, are not changed. They are uniform with those offered to other insurgents accused of murder.

ASBESTOS IN CALIFORNIA.

To discover asbestos in California of such a quality that threads of it can be drawn two and three feet means that an important new industry has been added to the resources of this State—that is, if the news from Shasta county should be confirmed. The dispatches say William Murray, a prospector of that region, has made such a find. Those who are familiar with asbestos in its natural state will be disposed to doubt the accuracy of the report, but it would not be necessary to have the mineral threads of so unusual a length to make the claim of great worth. If they were a foot long the discoverer would be certain of a fortune that would far exceed that to be derived from an ordinary gold mine. For the sake of the State, as well as for the good of Mr. Murray, it is sincerely hoped that no mistake has been made. A market for the product is always assured.

Others will now be looking for asbestos, and it is not unlikely that some veins will be found in places where nothing of the kind has been thought of. But that is not all that will result from the search, as attention will be called to many other profitable metals known to exist in this State, and the variety as well as the volume of our mineral output will be considerably increased. We have been too inclined to think that the precious metals were the only kind worthy of being searched for, and even among them we have oddly overlooked platinum, which is now worth $26 an ounce—that is, twice as much as gold. Iron is well known to be common in more than one of the counties of this State, for instance, but aside from the Clipper Gap experiment there has been no effort to make its working profitable; and lead is another neglected mineral. Let us make more use of all the advantages that nature has given us.

The organizers of the steel trust are talking of starting an international bank with a capitalization of a billion of dollars. With the billion dollars they have invested in the steel business and the billion dollars in the bank, their assets will foot up just about a billion dollars more than there are in the world, so it can be seen that some interesting financial juggling is in prospect.

No better proof could be given of the exceeding prosperity of the country than that, despite the strikes and other labor disturbances now prevailing the volume of business remains unchecked. Dun's report for the past week shows a huge export trade and a corresponding activity in all manufacturing centers, so it can be seen that our commerce has attained such vast proportions that it is almost impossible to check it.

MISUSING THE EYES.

When 25 per cent of the candidates for cadetship at the United States Military Academy at West Point fail to pass the physical examination on account of weak eyesight, it is proof that something is wrong with their early training. They either were too young when they learned to read, or else they were allowed to strain their eyes over improperly-printed books.

Some years ago Berlin scientists seriously discussed the advisability of changing the German text in school books to the Roman—as that used by nearly every other Caucasian nation is called. It was found, however, that the print was not so much to blame for the Teutonic children's poor eyes as was the quantity of reading made necessary by educational requirements. That is what is the matter here. Three or four books formerly constituted all that the young eye had to scan, while now each child has to study a small library and the optic has been unduly strained.

That this accounts for the noticeable increase in the wearing of glasses is unquestionable. Even twenty years ago few bespectacled young people were seen in the streets, but now we see little ones, scarcely able to walk, who have to wear glasses, and oculists and opticians abound. Much could be done, doubtless, to improve this condition of affairs if parents would force their children to take a proper attitude when reading, but a great deal more could be accomplished if the unsentimental and burdensome educational system now in vogue were to be radically altered and fewer books forced upon the students.

If something of this kind is not done pretty soon the time is not far distant when 75 instead of 25 per cent of West Point candidates will be unable to pass the physical examinations, and the end will be, as in Germany, that many of our subalterns will have to go to drill with goggles as a necessary part of their equipment. Remember, too, that West Point is representative, and the chances are that in the rest of the country the conditions are fully as bad. If we do not look out, America will be known fifty years hence as a nation of spectacle-wearers.

There is a good deal of the glad hand about the interchange of compliments that is going on just now between America and England, but the right results are being obtained, and that is the main thing to be considered. With the two English-speaking nations acting in unison, there need be no fear of the "sleeping giant" of China or anywhere else, for they can outpoint the rest of the world put together, and that is evidently what they propose to do. That Anglo-American alliance that the diplomats sought to bring about a couple of years ago is being wrought in a different and surer way by the business men, for once their financial interests are in common there will be no breaking away upon any other lines.

The little child is safe from ordinary dangers in the care of the faithful dog. But neither the dog's fidelity, nor the mother's love can guard a child from those invisible foes that lurk in air, water and food—the germs of disease. Children need to be specially watched and cared for. When a child is of appetitive, lusty and listless in a child, an attempt should be made to revive the appetite and rally the spirits. In Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery parents have found an invaluable medicine for children. Its purely vegetable character and absolute freedom from alcohol and narcotics commend it to every thoughtful person. It is pleasant to the taste, unlike the foul oils and their emulsions offered for children's use. "Golden Medical Discovery" makes pure blood and sound flesh, and absolutely eliminates from the system the poisons which feed disease.

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterville, Me., writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad to find a doctor who can cure my child. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pelle's,' and one bottle of 'Sanchi's Catarrh Remedy,' and she is well. We thank God for your medicines."

Under a canopy of white silk and smiles, Miss Belle Herrscher and Abraham Greenfield were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herrscher of San Leandro. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi M. L. Levy of San Francisco, in the presence of the immediate members of the family.

The bridal procession entered the large parlors of the Herrscher home promptly at the hour announced for the marriage ceremony, the orchestra rendering the Lohengrin wedding march. In the van of the party were two little flower girls, Norma and Beatrice Lichtenstein, delightfully gowned in white organdie. As they walked along they strewed flowers in the path of their loved ones. After them came the maid of honor, Miss Elsie Seligman, becomingly attired in white organdie and lace. Then came the groom, accompanied by Mrs. D. Herrscher of Mount Vernon, Ill., and finally the bride, mounting upon the arm of her cousin, Isadore Lichtenstein.

The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white silk poplin, trimmed in chiffon and orange blossoms, en traine. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. Beneath the silken canopy the bride and groom stood while Rabbi Levy pronounced them man and wife.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony, during which congratulations were showered upon the bride and groom, and messages wishing success and happiness were read from many far-away friends. Mrs. Joseph Herrscher, the hostess, wore a Parisian gown of gray crepe, ornamented with white flowers. The bride was assisted, and was attired in an imported silk applique, with chiffon. She wore diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield left on the afternoon train for Monterey, where they will spend the honeymoon. They will make their future home in Pinole. Mr. Greenfield is the manager of Joseph Herrscher's business house at that place.

FIFTY NEW CARS FOR THE S. P.

President Hays Places a Large Order with an Eastern Firm.

RETURNS FROM AN INSPECTION OF ROAD.

Thirty Popular Chair Cars Are Included in the President's Order.

President Charles M. Hays of the Southern Pacific Company returned Friday evening from Portland, Or., where he has been on a tour of inspection. He was accompanied on his trip by H. B. Pittsburgh, who is shortly to fill the position of assistant to the president. General Manager Julius Kruttschnitt completed the party. While in Portland they inspected the new machine shops that have been recently erected there, and Hays expressed himself as greatly pleased with the plant. He found no fault with the work that business is conducted in the northern division.

On the way north President Hays made special inspection of the rolling stock. He found a great deal of fault, and one of his first steps on his return was to order some new passenger coaches. Hays does not do things by halves and an order was sent East for fifty coaches. Thirty of these will be the new popular chair cars and the rest of the order will be made up of modern day coaches. All the cars ordered will be sixty feet long, the largest ever ordered or used by the Southern Pacific. The new cars will be based on the overland service and will certainly be an acquisition to the road.

On his way down President Hays stopped off long enough at Sacramento to pay a visit to the railroad shops. The additions to the rolling mills have been completed and they will have twice the capacity that they had in the past. A larger number of men will necessarily be employed and work will be completed with greater dispatch.

READY FOR A BUSINESS LIFE.

The Evening School Class Holds
Graduating Exercises
at High School.

DIRECTOR G. H. GRAY
DELIVERS AN ADDRESS.

An Interesting Talk on the Work
Accomplished in the Night School.

Hon. Giles H. Gray, a member of the Board of Education, takes a deep interest in the Evening School. At the closing exercises of the institution Mr. Gray made the following address on behalf of the Board of Education:

This is the first occasion when the public have been invited to attend the closing exercises of our Evening School, and just what I am expected to say has not been intimated to me. But there is a subject upon which I would like to speak, and that is the importance of the Evening School and its relation to the School Department and the Day School. And I want you all to know that we have an Evening School, and if you need more education, that we want you to come and join it.

"Twelve pupils have on this day finished the course of study of the Commercial Class, and are to receive at this time certificates declaring their proficiency in the work of the Commercial Department.

A COMMERCIAL CLASS.
Now, a word to the pupils who are about to graduate.

"You are all from the Commercial Class. The certificate which has been handed to you does not indicate that your education is complete; that would be impossible. There is no man whose education is complete. But you have completed the course of study in the department of this school, which you entered. There is much for you to learn yet, and having accomplished so much it is likely you will want to study longer, and in other subjects. Earnest study brings love for more study.

"These latter demand of men and women a better educational equipment than was formerly required. Now every American man and woman must have some education, and at least read, write and perform simple arithmetic problems, in order to find employment.

"The days of the wooden warship, when sailors sailed the ship, and the midshipmen and soldiers did the fighting have passed, and now every man on the ship is a fighter, most of the men must have the intelligence and training of a machinist. The intricate and complicated machines of a modern battleship require that class of men.

"Years ago a soldier was competent if he could carry a gun and pull the trigger, now he must understand all the intricacies of the construction of a modern rifle.

"The carrier of brick and mortar to the top of a building is no longer a Hercules, but he may be a plucky if he can keep in order and operate a stationary steam engine.

"Formerly the street car could be intrusted to the care of any man, now it could hold the lives of a pair of old horses, but now that duty must be performed by a motorman, who fully understands the laws and uses of electricity, and is a competent mechanic.

THE SCHOOL TEACHER.
Formerly a school teacher was competent to teach school if he could read, write, cipher and whip bad boys. Now no whipping is required, and a competent teacher must be a Normal School or College graduate, a qualification acquired only by years of study.

"The era of unthinking mechanics, and blind soldiers or sailors, has passed, and the demand is for men of education and with trained intellects.

"Science is no longer the specific property of the college professor, but must be understood by every man and woman.

"Electricity was years ago represented by a kite, or a piece of silk upon a revolving glass cylinder, but now is found in countless forms of useful inventions, in our houses, in our offices, upon the streets, and at our hands everywhere.

"The telegraph, the telephone, the gramophone, the bells, the lights, the cooking, the street cars, the automobiles, and many other uses, demand men and women who can do more than merely push the button. To master and understand the best forms of electrical apparatus demands a good education and a trained intellect.

"Chemistry, biology, surgery, medicine, geology, botany and mineralogy all demand the educated man, and the wants of men now demand the use of all the secrets and discoveries of those subjects.

TRAINING OF MIND.
"Education is the training of the mind. Books and lectures are only a part of an education. There is a growth of the mind without the school room as well as within it and beyond the teacher as well as from him.

"It is a mistake to suppose the usefulness of an education is limited to the fact, which a student can remember, and carry away with him from school. The mental training which is of value to the student is not in the student in algebra, or geometry, but in the student's problem on paper, the paper has no value, but the mental training during the work of a successful solution of the problem, will remain with him, and assist to solve other problems, not only in the subjects mentioned, but in other subjects. That successful effort gives great pleasure and satisfaction, and is mental training, and strengthens in the student the power and habit of thinking.

So, too, when the student in manual training, at his work bench in accordance with the blue print plan and the teacher's directions given to him by his teacher, the benefit to the pupil is not the value of the box, acquired, but rather the mental training had in following out accurately the instructions given to him. The mental training will enable him to make other boxes.

The carpenter, the machinist, and every mechanic needs and has mental training to follow the requirements of his trade. He is a student, and the mechanic in life to follow his trade, the sooner he will become an accomplished and expert mechanic in the trade he has selected.

"Neither book study nor school discipline, the only methods of training the mind. Experience, responsibility, and environment will sometimes do for a man what in other men is accomplished only by years of school education.

SELF MADE MEN.
"Frequently men will claim to be self made, and that they have never been in a school or college since they were say twelve years old, and claim to have been successful, although they command life without the school training, and argue from that that school does not follow, for his trade, his occupation, his necessities have been a training for him and enabled him to do what he has been compelled to do, and he might have done sooner and better, if he had been better educated before he commenced his life work.

"The business of our schools is to help men and women to help themselves, to give them large, clear and vigorous minds which will enable them to think and act with greater intelligence, in whatever sphere of life they may be placed.

"The sentiment of the day is more education. Our universities are sending out hundreds of educated men and women now where in former years colleges were graduating dozens.

EDUCATION A DUTY.
"Education adds to the pleasure of living, as well as to the usefulness of the man. It also adds to the stability of our government, and is a guarantee for intelligent use of the ballot and intelligent participation of the man in the discussion and decision of political questions. In the old world, education, and liberty rests upon the intelligence, the better is the more intelligent, the better is the government.

"In the old countries education is a privilege; in our country it is a duty. In our country every school is an institution against anarchy, and every educated man is a missionary of the stability of the government.

"Now to those of this audience who are not pupils, and to the people of Oakland, I wish to describe our public school system and to show that the evening school is a necessary part of it, and is entitled to support as much as the day school.

"The public school system of this State is divided into three periods of four years each. The pupil is admitted to the primary school at the age of 6 years, and the courses of study are so arranged that four years are spent in primary work, and in classic known as primary grades. The next four years are for the grammar grades completing the sixth grade work, and the next four years are for the high school work, which by law is required to be such a course of study as will fit and prepare the students therein, promoted from the grammar grades, to enter any of the departments of the University of California.

"The qualification to enter is fixed by the rules of the University, which must be conformed to by the High School faculty.

AS TO PROMOTION.
"In Oakland, when the pupil has finished the eighth grade, he is promoted to the Central school, where he or she has the opportunity to take either the first year of the High School course, which includes Latin, algebra, geometry, English literature, or instead may take manual training and a commercial course, which includes work in the shops and industrial drawing for boys and cooking and sewing for girls, or for both boys and girls, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, reading, writing, spelling, typewriting, stenography, history, English literature, grammar and composition, physics, physical geography and Spanish language—in fact, a complete equipment for a young man or woman, to fit them to commence the business of life and to earn a life living.

"Those pupils who do not take the manual training course are expected to take in the Central school the first year of the High School course of study.

"The Central school cannot be a grammar school, and he has been promoted from the grammar school and entered work in High School subjects. The eighth grade is the highest grammar grade in the public school system.

"Therefore the City of Oakland cannot declare the Central school a Grammar school, but must support it as a High School or turn the pupils into the street and stop keeping a High School.

"From experience in the Oakland Grammar schools it has been found that the classes of the eighth grade are of only about one-half the number of the classes of the seven grade preceding, and from the eighth grade more than one-half of that class leave school and go to work.

"The classes of the ninth grade and of the High School are before the end of the High School course yet more reduced in numbers, until a very small number, compared with those who commenced in the Grammar school, enter the University.

"There are many causes for such diminution of classes, but the principal is the necessity for the child to aid in the support of the family of which he is a part. The boys become cash boys, newspaper carriers, messenger boys, telegraph boys and the like. Many boys leave school for work because study is distasteful to them; such boys after a while are apt to want to return and resume their studies and they are provided for in the Evening School.

EVENING SCHOOL DIFFERS.
"The Evening school differs from the day school both in its methods of teaching and in its class of pupils.

"Like the day school, it is conducted for forty-two weeks in the year, and for five evenings in the week, and its teachers must be well qualified.

"But the sizes of the pupils range from 12 to 40 years and the personnel is different. The careless and indifferent pupil is absent, and every pupil before coming to the school has usually been at work all day and is at school encroaching upon his well earned hours of rest and recreation. Sometimes the younger boys are too tired for study and unintentionally drop off to sleep for a moment while at study.

"Every pupil has his separate desk, and most of the pupils require individual instruction. There are no classes, as the measure of advancement and progress differs with each pupil.

"The class rooms are quiet and orderly, while the teacher during the entire session moves quickly from one pupil to another, answering questions and pointing out mistakes.

"A stranger entering the class room would be hardly noticed.

"One evening of each week the professor of penmanship gives instruction, illustrated upon the blackboard.

THE PRIMARY.
"At present there are five classes or departments, of which the first is the primary. That is the A, B, C class, and the pupils range from the age of 12 to 16 years. There are many foreigners in this class, but no Chinese.

"Here is a man of more than fifty years learning to read, but making very slow progress. He hopes to take a Civil Service examination, and to read for his Bible at his own cabin. He comes every night all the way from East Oakland. He is improving slowly, and not as fast as he would if he were young and was accustomed to study.

"The second class is an old sea captain of 60 years of age. He is learning arithmetic, he came to read very well, newspapers are strange to him.

"Those two young girls over there, aged about 22 years, come every night. They are learning to read; they can earn better wages if they can read and write fluently and easily, and that is what they come for.

"Every pupil has a reason for coming and an incentive to study or an object in view.

"The next class is equivalent to the seventh grade grammar day school, and is composed mostly of those who have dropped out of the Grammar schools to work for wages and find that more education is necessary.

"The next class is equivalent to the eighth grade grammar day school, and is also composed mostly of pupils who dropped out of the day schools from necessity.

"The fourth class is for teaching the subjects usually taught in the High School, and while the pupils are not preparing for the college or university they need their study to make them equal in conversation, in general information, to their acquaintances and associates in society and in business.

"The fifth class is known as the commercial department, in which the principal studies are bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic and English language. In this class are found many men and women, who are employed in well known business stores or houses, and who by increasing their ability and practice in keeping books and accounts expect to obtain promotion and increased wages.

"Sixth, too, we find those deficient in their knowledge of English; for example, the typewriter girl who cannot spell correctly, or form English sentences correctly, and who has discovered that to do her work well and get the best wages she must learn to read, spell and formulate business letters and correspondence. A poor speller will not be a good typewriter.

EDUCATION NEGLECTED.
"Many persons whose education has been neglected in their youth are restrained by pride, age and size from attending the day school, where they must take place with the small and young children, and the part in childish exercises, where they would be conspicuous and the most observed of all in the class.

"And those persons who most need the supplementary education obtainable in the Evening school are frequently too poor to pay for the tuition at a private academy or business college.

"Therefore it must be obvious that the Evening school is a necessary and important supplement to the day school and should be and is a part of the public school system of Oakland.

"It is the opinion of the Board of Education, and in that view they have placed the facilities of the Evening school within the reach of all who need the supplementary education which it affords.

LIVERYMEN DID NOT COMBINE.
Could Not Agree on Terms and
Will Wait for Union
to Act.

There was an informal meeting of livery stable men on Telegraph street for the purpose of exchanging views as regards unionizing their stables and accepting or rejecting the demands for an increase of wages which, it is said, the journeymen hostlers are soon to make.

There were present Messrs. Kane of Kane & Doby, Remmer of the Palo Alto Stables; Carr of the Chieftain Stables; Gates, Dellington, Hunt, Peterson of the Juantis, and several others.

The gathering took place in R. D. Hunter's insurance office on Franklin street between Broadway and Teutonic streets.

Some of the men said they were willing to pay their employees the increased wages asked, namely $1 per day. Others opposed the increase and others still were non-committal on the subject. The meeting adjourned without action of any kind having been taken.

OAKLAND PLAYERS WIN
FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Yesterday morning the Oakland baseball team defeated San Francisco by a score of 4 to 1 in the afternoon San Francisco was victorious by a score of 2 to 1. Sacramento defeated Los Angeles by a score of 2 to 1.

CHANGES MADE IN THE SCHOOLS

Board of Education Drops Several
Teachers from the Oakland Department.

RESIGNATIONS ARE
RECEIVED BY DIRECTORS.

Salaries of Some of the Teachers
Are Cut Down—Other
Changes Made.

All of the changes that THE TRIBUNE predicted would be made in the School Department were realized at the annual meeting of the City Board of Education Saturday night. All the directors were present and the lobby was crowded with instructors and friends of teachers who had come to learn the fate of some of them.

In each instance the changes were those recommended by the Classification Committee.

Teachers Resigned.

Miss Loraine Stilson of the Lafayette, Miss Olivia Day of the Tompkins, Miss Katherine D. Anderson of the Harrison and Miss Luella O. Everett of the Cole school tendered their resignations, which were accepted and their names were dropped from the list.

The three latter will shortly become brides; but it is understood that friends of Miss Stilson, who was an appointee of Dr. Wakeland two years ago, made a hard but unsuccessful fight to have her retained in the department, and that, finding the board obstinate, her resignation was proffered.

Several Were Dropped.

The following teachers were also omitted from the list appointed for the next school year: Pablo Sanchez, Instructor in Spanish at the Central; J. M. Patton, instructor in French and German in the High School; Mrs. N. H. Hornick of the Lafayette grammar school, and Miss H. C. Larkin, formerly of the Lincoln grammar, who has been out on leave of absence for the past year.

The substitute teacher was William W. Fogg, instructor in mathematics at the Central School, who was superceded by Miss Ethel McClymonds, who proceeded him on the preferred list for that school.

Preferred List.

The following preferred list of primary and grammar grade teachers, from which the Classification Committee will fill vacancies, was also adopted: Estelle Lucy, Grace M. Hostetter, Bessie Brownell, Grace E. Wasson, Minnie C. Newman, Flora E. Mitchell, Clara F. Boardman, Etta Parsons, Mrs. Ruth McClellan, Sarah V. Larue, May L. Sellander, Vincenza Milledge, Annie O. Bennetts, Ethel Whitney, Mary C. Crawford, Ethel M. Price, Mattie Kelsey, Hanna Lorenson, Sallie H. Storrie, Anita Z. Hubbard, Mary L. A. Rhodes, Margaret M. Kennedy, Anna M. Bradley and Grace P. Meeker.

On the evening school list the sole name was that of Mrs. Mary T. Dunn.

High School Preferred.

The High School list is: Miss Lena Redington, daughter of the president of the Board of Education, who has been teaching in the Fresno High School since her graduation from the State University; Miss Mary Tyrrel, now a teacher in the Durant grammar school, and a graduate from Berkeley with the class of '01; and Miss Grace Sutton.

Salaries Reduced.

A recommendation from the Finance Committee changing the salary of High School teachers on the basis of experience was adopted. It reduces the salary of teachers of five years and more from $1,440 to $1,320 per annum; and those of less than two years from $1,200 to $1,050 in the grammar and primary schools college graduates will receive $80 more annually than teachers who hold no University diploma.

High School Principal.

Chairman Fred Butten of the High School Committee asked for and was granted further time in the matter of selecting a successor to Principal J. B. McChesney and Spanish Instructor Sanchez.

Vacation School.

Before the Board adjourned a petition of the Oakland Club asking that two rooms of the Tompkins school be given them free of charge for the use of the vacation school was granted, though it was understood that the ladies are to furnish their own janitor service.

NO MONEY FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

They Will Get Warrants But No
Coin Despite the Auditor's
Statement.

There is a lit of disappointed school teachers in town today. The pedagogues who teach in the High Schools thought they would get their back salaries before going off on their vacation, but they will not.

It was the statement of Auditor Breed published in the papers that led them to believe they would get their money. What they do get is warrants, not money. There is a big difference between the two, especially as the banks do not wish to discount the warrants in view of the legal complications growing out of the settlement of the city's water bills.

In brief the City Treasurer has $1,040 in the High School fund to meet demands aggregating something like $19,000. He will stop payment when this small balance is exhausted, but will register the warrants as they come to him, for future payment in case there is a transfer of money to the High School fund.

There is due the High School teachers their full salaries for April, May, and June, and eighty per cent of their salaries for March. That is more than one-third of their pay for the entire school year is still in arrears.

The general fund is heavily overdrawn which places it out of the power to appropriate the money for the teachers. The tie-up caused by the Auditor's refusal to approve the water bills has caused the complication.

The situation is this: There is an excess in the street sprinkling and other special funds sufficient to pay the High School teachers approximately provided it can be made available. But this excess is an artificial one based on the compromise effected with the Contra Costa Company which abated its bills for May and June, provided the other ten months were paid. Now the charter prohibits the Council from transferring money belonging to any special fund so long as there are outstanding claims against it.

The Auditor has refused to approve the water bills on the ground that the compromise was illegal and that the payment would involve the violation of a court order. This action ties up the money in the special funds until there is a hearing of the mandamus proceeding brought against the Auditor. This is set for June 17th, but it may be some days longer before a decision can be had.

In the meantime there can be no transfer, because if the compromise is illegal there is no surplus to transfer. Up to noon the Auditor had not issued any warrants on the school, because, as Deputy Hamford said, he was waiting till they all came in. However, the responsibility for the teachers not getting their money was passed up to the Council, the impression being adversely conveyed that the Council could give them their money if it chose to do so.

Treasurer Taylor said he could only pay till until the High School fund was exhausted.

Some of the teachers will not take an outgoing this year, and others will go on short commons. Mr. Breed feels very sad about it, so he says.

V. D. MOODY'S WILL PROBATED.

Heirs, However, Will Set Aside
the Bequests in the Document.

ONLY OUTSIDERS WILL BE PAID UNDER WILL.

When Distribution is Made the
Terms of Compromise Will Go Into Effect.

The will of the late Volney D. Moody, whose estate is valued at upwards of $800,000, was admitted to probate this morning without opposition. Letters testamentary were granted to David B. Moody, the testator's brother, and C. E. Wilson, who are named in the will as executors.

Although the will has been admitted to probate, the provisions made in it will not be carried out when the estate is distributed. The property will be distributed according to a compromise which was effected a few weeks ago between the stepmother and the children of the first marriage, when a contest of the will was threatened.

According to the terms of the will, the widow, Mrs. Mary Moody, was to have received about two-fifths of the estate. The remainder of the property, after the payment of a number of bequests to relatives, was to have been divided among the three children—William C. Moody, Nellie E. Blood and Jessie L. Appleton.

According to the compromise it is agreed that the bequests in the will to relatives shall be paid. The remainder of the estate is to be divided, one-third to the widow and two-thirds to the children.

The principal objection raised by the children to the bequests made to their stepmother in the will was that she was to receive the best part of the property. They also contended that she was left more than a fair share of the estate.

Minor bequests are to be paid as follows: To David B. Moody, a brother, the sum of $10,000, to be applied on an indebtedness of $49,500 owing from him to the testator; to David B. Moody, the sum of $10,000, to be held in trust and Charlotte A. Foxner; to George Moody, a brother, the sum of $10,000, of which $5,000 is to be applied to take up a note owing from him to the testator; to Alden Moore, a cousin, $5,000.

Outside these bequests, the property left to the widow and children is to be left to the estate and be redid according to the compromise.

MISS CLIFT IS A BRIDE.

Pretty Wedding at the Family
Home on San Pablo
Avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Bawden Clift became the bride of Mr. Lee Cole Burnham at noon today. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, 633 San Pablo avenue. On account of the recent death of the bride's father, the late William Clift, there was an absence of ostentation.

However, the spacious drawing room, where the ceremony was performed, was prettily, though modestly, decorated in pink and white, and the bride and groom stood beneath a scroll canopy of pink ivy geraniums.

At the wedding procession Judge Fred Clift and his mother led the way and were followed by Mr. and Mrs. Maud Seales, Little Miss Seales, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundborg, Mrs. Fred Clift and the bride couple. The party proceeded to the drawing-room. The sweet strains of Lohengrin's wedding march were heard from the adjoining music-room.

The pretty bride, gowned in heavy white satin en traine, and wedding veil, was given away by her brother, Judge Fred Clift. She carried a bunch of gladiolus, and among her ornaments was a brooch of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

The Rev. Robert Ritchie, rector of St. Paul's Church, officiated and the ceremony consisted of the Episcopal service. During the ceremony the musicians played De Koven's "Oh Promise Me."

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast arranged by Malahan. Among those present were only relatives and most intimate friends. The guests were: Mrs. William Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Maud Seales, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundborg, the Little Misses Seales, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lukens, Mr. and Mrs. Musser, Mrs. Chabot, Mr. Robert Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Crellin, Mrs. Geo. Hammer, Miss Mollie Connors, Mrs. Arthur Crellin, Mrs. M. E. Davidson, R. M. Fitzgerald, Mrs. O. H. Burdison, Walter Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edes.

The wedding gifts were both numerous and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham left this afternoon on their honeymoon trip. Their destination is a secret.

They will make their home for the present at 633 San Pablo avenue.

For Mrs. M. C. Gilban to George W. Trench, the well known oil operator of San Francisco, two-story residence and lot 50x125, on the south side of Twenty-second street, 250 feet west of Telegraph avenue.

For Mrs. L. Ivey to H. E. Wilson, a prominent business man of San Francisco, fine two-story residence and lot 50x140 on the north side of Albion street (or Twenty-ninth), 400 feet west of Telegraph avenue.

SOME QUESTIONS FOR CHURCH TO ANSWER.

Editor TRIBUNE.—Sir: Would any of your kind readers who take an interest in the cause of "humanity" and the "peace of the world" answer two important questions bearing on the subject of our social economy?

I am deeply interested in the true following out of principles that lead to the happiness and contentment of all men, and wonder where our so-called civilization will finally bring us.

Question 1.—Has "the Church" in any age unethically and persistently done anything to move their fellow-beings who possessed power, wealth and influence to alter the "economic" conditions of the industrial and tolling masses of people in any country? If so, state where and when, and with what result?

Question 2.—Is the principle working out of a Gospel idea (after 1900 years) to be seen crystallized in the monstrous, devilish, human-murdering machine termed a "warship," or in a corrupt form of government, or in corrupt legislation, or in corrupt municipalities, or again in large standing armies and navies, alongside of various "established churches," vying with one another for supremacy and power, or, lastly, in the present day destructive, selfish system of commercial competition?

NOTE.—Question 1 speaks of "the Church," but is it not very difficult to locate "the Church" in this year of Grace A. D. 1931? Yours faithfully,
E. S. LISHMAN.
Oakland, Cal.

UNION BUTCHERS WALK OUT OF SHOPS, IN THREE CITIES

Proprietors Are Forced to Cut Their Own Meat--Oakland Wholesalers Waiting to Hear From San Francisco.

What promises to become a meat famine in the city was inaugurated this morning when between 300 and 400 meat choppers, drivers and slaughterers of the city and at the Stockyards walked out. Today most of the retail shops of the city were open, but in only a few instances was meat delivered. The only way in which to secure meat was to go or send after it and to wait about the shops until the proprietor or his limited non-union help could serve one. The strike was conducted quietly and during the morning the men were notified that the wholesale butchers, at whom the strike was directed, would hold a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the offices of Miller & Lux in San Francisco, and would then decide whether they would accede to the demands or to fight the matter out.

Cause of Strike.

The trouble between the butchers and their employers has been of several days standing. The men asked for a shorter day, not going to work until 6 o'clock instead of 5 o'clock in the mornings and closing at 5 o'clock in the afternoons. They also demanded that the shops be closed at 9 instead of 10 o'clock on Saturday evenings. After considerable parleying every demand was acceded to and things went along smoothly for several days. The men, however, had demanded that the bosses sign an agreement to that effect and that they display the union card. This many of the bosses refused to do, and last Friday evening it was decided to strike at noon Saturday unless the proprietors of shops and of the slaughter houses at the Stockyards signed the agreement.

The First Strike.

By noon Saturday the proprietors of all of the large shops of the city had agreed to unionize their shops. The exceptions were Newhall and Lurgin. The wholesale men, however, held out and the men employed by Grayson, Owens & Co., the Western Meat Company, the Oakland Meat Company and Slater walked out.

John Stewart signed the agreement but refused to display the card, and today his men walked out, leaving F. Camis & Co. the only union wholesalers at the Stockyards.

Yesterday it was rumored that the wholesalers had threatened to refuse to deliver meat to union shops and a meeting of the butchers' union was hastily called. It was then decided that, in order to make the strike more effective, it would be well to order a strike in the retail shops. That action was taken; hence, the trouble of today.

The Trouble Today.

All the men appeared at their respective places of employment at 6 o'clock this morning, but five minutes later, upon learning that the wholesalers were obdurate they laid aside their aprons and knives, saws and axes and walked out. The action was general and by 6:15 o'clock not a union man was working at the Stockyards nor in the city.

The proprietors were for a time at their wits' ends to know what to do with their customers' demands, but the proprietors in almost every case took up the aprons and tools that had been discarded by the men and went to work. In this manner those who called for their meat could, with some difficulty be supplied and it was not an uncommon thing to see a hotel man or a restaurant keeper struggling under a heavily laden basket of beef. They could not send their employees who belonged to other unions for fear of complicating matters and perhaps cause another uprising.

Scene at Becker's.

Most of the strikers assembled in front of Becker's market on Washington street, between Eighth and Ninth streets and all day long there was a crowd of curious and those interested in front of the place. The sidewalk was crowded and Patrolman Nick Williams had to be re-informed by Patrolman Nedderman in order to keep a clear passageway.

The men appeared at Becker's promptly at 6 o'clock but, after handling some of his beef, walked out ten minutes later. For a time the shop was closed but later Becker appeared, donned an apron and went to work. It was the first time he had cut any meat in twenty years, but he worked with a will and with the assistance of a couple of cash boys and two strangers who asked for work, he was able to serve the hotel and restaurant men who were depending upon him for their day's meat. He did not attempt to deliver nor to serve his regular retail customers.

Strikers Amused.

The sight of Becker at work furnished considerable amusement for the strikers, most of whom were congregated either in front of the shop or in their headquarters in Becker's Hall overhead.

"I like to see that," said one of them as Becker appeared, struggling under a huge beef and perspiring freely. "Becker has watched me work for twenty years, and it's fun to stand around in my best suit of clothes and see him do a little hard graft." The remark was greeted with laughter and the men then turned their attention to the proprietor of Wilson's market next door. He had left his doors open and was attempting to serve unaided the fifteen or twenty women who were clamoring for meat. He was made the target for all sorts of repartee and epigrams, but he took it all good naturedly.

At Other Shops.

The smaller shops were not so seriously inconvenienced and some of them carried on their regular business. At the Conkley Brothers' shop on Fourteenth street one of the brothers did the inside work and the other attended to the outside orders.

At Henry Steinbeck's Crystal Market on Telegraph avenue the shop was kept open and Steinbeck and a non-union employee cut the meat, while the bookkeeper did the delivering.

At Vincents market on lower Washington street the proprietor attended to the customers who appeared, but made no attempt to deliver orders.

At almost all the shops non-union men were eagerly sought, but they were not to be found except in small numbers.

Becker's Statement.

"I agreed to display the union card Saturday," said Becker, as he mopped his perspiring brow and rested for a second against a block, "but the men promised me that they would handle my stock. I had already got in 100 head of cattle Friday, and with such assurances of the men I bought fifty hogs Saturday. They have broken their agreement and I have discarded their union card."

"I do not anticipate trouble from the meat spoiling for a week or perhaps two weeks, and in the meantime I will try to secure a new crew. I have already telegraphed to San Francisco and Los Angeles for men, and I will telegraph East if necessary. There is no fear of the wholesalers giving in if they commence the fight, and I therefore laid in a stock of union meat to guard against this difficulty, but the men went back on their word and refused to handle even union meat. Had it not been for their assurances I would not have signed their agreement Saturday."

"This trouble is caused mainly through those who are trying to hurt me, but we will soon see what the wholesalers will do about it. They have plenty of strength to make the fight if they desire to do so."

What Wholesalers Say.

I. C. Lewis, vice president of Grayson, Owen & Co., wholesale butchers, was seen just as he returned from the stock yards, where he had been assisting in slaughtering beef.

"The strike at the stock yards occurred Saturday," said he "and since that time we have been rustling to slaughter and serve customers. We have succeeded by working ourselves and by hiring any one we could find to assist. You may say that we have been doing our regular business with the assistance of non-union men."

"We conceded every demand of the men as far as hours and time were concerned and none of our men had any complaint to make except that we would not display the union card nor sign the agreement that they submitted. Some of our men had been with us for years and were considered a part of the business, and we would have conceded a great deal to avoid the strike."

Afraid of Card.

"In regard to the union card, we objected to it mainly because we did not know where it would lead us. If we signed now and accepted their dictation, we did not know what might happen to us a year from now."

"No one can tell to what this strike may bring us, but there has been no talk of a meat trust and heretofore there has been no sort of combination among the wholesalers. We have been dealing in a free and open market."

"What action will be taken at the meeting of the Wholesale Butchers' Association is, of course, merely a matter of conjecture, but if the San Francisco dealers will stand by us we have no fear for the results. We are now serving meat to all who order it, regardless of the card, but when they receive meat from us, it being non-union meat, makes the shop a non-union shop and the card becomes meaningless."

A Banker's Views.

Thomas Prather, president of the Union National Bank, in speaking of the butchers' walkout this morning said:

"It would not be right for me to discuss the features of the case, because I am not in that business. The strike is to be regretted, but I think the good sense of both parties will bring them to some amicable arrangement."

The Men Determined.

"We are convinced that the money interests have combined against us to try to break our union," said Secretary Douglas of the Butchers' Union today, "and we have therefore ordered the strike for self-protection. We demand that the wholesale shops, as well as the retail shops, shall be unionized, and until this is done we will make a determined fight. The union is composed of from 300 to 400 determined men, who demand justice at the hands of the employers. It is a question of capital against labor, and we believe that labor will win."

Half-hour bulletins from the stock yards were received during the day at the union headquarters.

In Suburban Towns.

BERKELEY, June 10.—All the union butchers employed in the Berkeley and Alameda shops walked out this morning in accordance with a resolution passed by their union last evening.

The strike was brought about on account of the fact that the local retailers buy their meat from wholesale butchers who refuse to display union cards in their places of business.

All the Alameda shops are open, but the union men are cut and the proprietors have to do the work.

STILL STRIKING ALL ALONG THE LINE.

After the big butchers' strike which was inaugurated today the principal topic of discussion at labor headquarters was the sympathetic strike of molders at the Oakland and Judson Iron Works. The machinists at those two institutions have been on a strike for some time, and last week the apprentices followed them out of sympathy. Friday, in accordance with orders from the national headquarters of the Iron Molders and Core Makers' Association, the molders walked out. They have no grievance of their own, but are in sympathy with the machinists.

At the Oakland Iron Works between twenty-five and thirty iron molders and between fifteen and twenty molders' apprentices walked out and a smaller number followed them; example at the Judson Works.

Saturday night at the Troy Laundry fifteen of the workers walked out. They had previously threatened to take that action, but the proprietors had acceded to all their demands. There were six non-union employees in the place, however, and when the proprietors refused to discharge them a walkout was ordered.

OFFICER IS KILLED BY THE INSURGENTS.

MANILA, June 10, 6:10 P. M.—The officer named Lee who was killed, not wounded, in the recent battle with the insurgents at Lipa, province of Batangas, was Lieutenant Lee of the Engineers, not Lieutenant Fitzhugh Lee Jr., as previously cabled.

DEPUTY CORONER ORDERED AWAY FROM HOME.

Cannot Hold an Inquest on the Burned.

SINGULAR SITUATION IN COLLEGE TOWN.

BERKELEY, June 10.—The citizens of Berkeley are considerably excited over the failure of Deputy Coroner Straightif to hold an inquest over the remains of Wirt Allen, the 9-year-old deaf mute who was so horribly burned to death at the Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind at Berkeley Saturday.

The deputy's failure is due to the fact that the institution is under quarantine for smallpox and the officials will neither allow him to enter the place to take testimony nor allow the witnesses to leave the place.

In the meantime George Hoffman, the attendant whose carelessness in smoking cigarettes while bathing the child in alcohol caused the sad accident, is at the institution, but it is feared that he may escape.

Deputy Coroner Straightif went to the Institute today to subpoena witnesses, but he was met at the gate by an attendant, who ordered him not to enter. He sought Health Officer Rowell, who explained that the building was under quarantine by order of the State Board of Health. Straightif had then, no other alternative than to postpone the inquest indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen of Winters, Solano county, the parents of the child, are heartbroken by their bereavement, and they will take the remains to Winters tomorrow for burial. To a TRIBUNE reporter Mr. Allen today stated that he would not proceed against the careless attendant, but would await the action of the coroner's jury. It is feared that Hoffman, in the meantime, may become frightened and escape, which he could do at any time by leaping over the fence.

Today Deputy Coroner Straightif swore in the following jury to sit upon the case: Francis Ferris, T. B. Smith, J. C. Fitzpatrick, W. H. Driggs, B. E. Underwood, W. T. Gillman, S. J. Sill, Oliver Youngs, C. H. Kittredge, Leo Rogers, C. H. Townsend, Samuel Morehead.

MINISTER SAYS IT WAS JOKE.

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—Rev. Arthur Hallam, of Santa Monica, whose simultaneous arrest and reported drowning induced the authorities to suspect a plot to defraud the insurance companies has turned up again at Santa Monica and says the whole escapade was a practical joke. The story that there was a heavy insurance on his life is said to be without foundation.

The Rev. Hallam declares that he instigated Boatman Brown to spread the report of his death and then disappeared with the intention of starting his congregation of St. Augustine-by-the-Sea, by rising from the dead, as it were, on Sunday and appearing suddenly in their midst. Hallam has only been in Santa Monica since last August. He has lived at Coronado and claims to have been an Episcopalian minister in India for sixteen years.

UNCLE SAM CANNOT JOIN THE POWERS

Gives Notice That We Will Not Take Part in the Guarantee.

CHINA MUST STAND FOR ITS OWN DEBT.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Government has formally communicated to the Foreign Powers the impossibility of joining in a joint guarantee for the payment of the Chinese indemnity. The difficulties in the way of such an arrangement are set forth in the communication, particularly those relating to the constitutional restrictions on the President in making a joint guarantee of this character. In view of the determination of the United States not to be a party to a joint guarantee, there is anxiety in diplomatic circles as to the outcome of the question of indemnities. One view is that the majority of the Powers, being favorable to a joint guaranty, will execute this joint instrument and thereafter carry on a concert of their own. In that event, it is said, the United States would arrange directly with China as to the American portion of the indemnity. The representatives of most of the Powers that resort to the Hague tribunal as proposed by the United States would be acceptable to their governments.

LOWELL, Mass., June 10.—No solution of the mystery of the unknown woman whose headless body was found yesterday in the Chestnutford Center wood has been reached. OUR SOLDIERS ATTACKED BY INSURGENTS.

Two Good Officers Lost Their Lives in the Battle.

TWO HUNDRED REBELS ARE DRIVEN BACK.

MANILA, June 10.—The enemy encountered by Captain Wilhelm of the Twenty-first Infantry, with fifty men of that regiment, were met six miles southeast of Lipa, in Batangas province, and consisted of more than 200 of Malvar's followers, supposedly the command of Gonzales. The insurgents were defeated, but their losses have not been reported. Yates' troop of the First Cavalry is pursuing them. During the engagement Lieutenant Anton Springer of the Twenty-first Infantry was shot in the head and killed. Lieutenant Lee of the Engineers was shot in the head and bowels and soon died.

Captain Wilhelm was wounded in the shoulder and Lieutenant Charles R. Ramsay of the Twenty-first Infantry was shot in the left side. Both of these officers are seriously wounded. In addition two sergeants were seriously wounded and one private was wounded.

The American officers were planning to attack a force of the insurgents which was ahead of them when they were fired on from one side.

The Washington tariff decision has been received by the United States Philippine Commission, but the Commissioners are unable to say yet whether the result will require a continuance of military government.

The conditions offered to General Calles, the insurgent leader in Laguna province, are not changed. They are uniform with those offered to other insurgents accused of murder.

It is seldom one has the opportunity of purchasing a French foulard in fashionable coloring, and this season's design—a silk which has sold for from $1.00-$1.75—at the price of many cotton fabrics. To be taken advantage of, this opportunity must be embraced at once.

PRESIDENT SEES A FEW CALLERS.

Takes a Stroll in the White House Grounds With Comptroller Dawes.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The continued improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition, reported by her physicians, is noticeable at the White House in a perceptible relief from the intense anxiety that has existed there for the last ten days. Although she is by no means out of danger and there is constant fear of relapse, for the present she seems on the up grade, and the President is more cheerful.

He saw a few callers today and to his visitors expressed his encouragement.

While Mrs. McKinley's condition fluctuated, he said, she appeared brighter than for some days.

About noon the President went out for a stroll through the White House grounds with Comptroller of the Currency Dawes. The President talked very hopefully of Mrs. McKinley's condition and appeared much refreshed when he returned to the White House.

HACKETT MUST PAY

BACK THE MONEY.

Judge Greene, this morning, overruled a demurrer of J. H. Hackett et al of Alameda, who had borrowed $100 and against whom suit had been brought for the purpose of recovering the loan which had been made by E. E. Fowler. The demurrer was, in effect, that the debt was outlawed, two years having elapsed. The complainant, represented by Thos. Pierson and W. L. H. Gentry, held that the evidence of indebtedness was a written instrument and that the debt did not outlaw for four years. It was this construction which Judge Greene upheld.

TRUSTEE APPOINTED TO CLOSE A BIG DEAL.

The Union Trust Company was this morning appointed trustee of a mortgage of $100,000 given by the Western Pacific Railroad Company to the Central Pacific Company on October 28, 1895. The indebtedness consisted of 1,000 bonds of $100 each. In 1895 the two railroads were consolidated. Since then all of the bonds have been taken up by the Central Pacific Company. The original trustees, John A. Griswold and George T. M. Davis of New York, died several years ago, the former in 1872 and the latter in 1888. It was necessary to have a trustee to cancel the mortgage after the bonds were taken up. For this reason the Union Trust Company was today appointed, giving a bond in the sum of $1,000.

ACCIDENTS RECORDED AT THE HOSPITAL.

Samuel Craig of 1534 Railroad avenue, Alameda, aged 70 years, was thrown from his wagon and severely injured this morning in a railroad collision. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital near the Webster street curve, when the train struck the rear end of the wagon. Craig was thrown to the ground, being rendered unconscious by the fall. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital in the patrol wagon. His principal injury, besides the shock, was a deep wound on his head.

GERMANY WILL NOT INTERFERE.

England Can Keep on Fighting With the Boers in Africa.

BERLIN, June 10.—The Kieles Journal today prints a dispatch from The Hague saying that Queen Wilhelmina's recent visit here was meant to obtain Emperor William's consent to end the South African war, both the Severe and the Dreibund being willing to do so, through The Hague arbitration court, and that the Emperor consented and the court began work thereon. The dispatch has created a sensation here.

The Associated Press has just obtained the following Foreign Office statement, which is authorized by Count von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor:

"Neither Great Britain, France nor Russia ever approached Germany to participate in any action aiming at ending the South African war. Germany has all along distinguished between offering her good offices and intervention. To render her good offices would be possible if both parties to the war requested it, but it will be remembered that Great Britain only joined The Hague conference on condition that the Boer States were excluded. There is no doubt that Mr. Kruger, who is a serious statesman, came to Europe to obtain the good offices of several of the powers to end the war, but there is also no doubt that Great Britain does not want their good offices. At least it is true that since the South African war began Great Britain has never, either verbally or in writing, confidentially or officially, broached such an idea. It is quite possible that the Boer side has now formally asked The Hague court to lend its aid to end the war somehow, and the court has held a session regarding the matter, but that of course is entirely different from any serious steps to end the war."

IS NOT GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

Judge Ellsworth Pays His Respects to Otto Bernard, a Clubman.

"There is no law to compel a man to work, Mr. Bernard, but it seems to me that if a man had any regard for his own flesh and blood he would make an effort to support his child, even though he had to go to work on the street."

The foregoing words were addressed by Judge Ellsworth this morning to Otto A. Bernard, a prominent San Francisco club man, and manager of his wife's $200,000 estate.

Bernard was in court this morning in answer to a citation for contempt because during the last two years he has failed to pay $25 quarterly for the support of his son, who is now 14 years of age.

The citation was issued on the petition of Mrs. Lily M. Bernard. She claims that there is now due for the support of their son the sum of $238.25.

The Bernards were divorced in 1897. At that time Bernard was ordered to pay $25 every three months for the support of their infant child. For twelve years he complied with the order.

On the witness stand Bernard testified that he had no income at present. He said his wife, whom he married after his divorce from his first wife, paid his living expenses and purchased his clothes. He said that she also paid his dues at the Bohemian Club, of which he is a member.

Bernard was well dressed, but wore no jewelry. In his pockets he had $2. The court ordered him to pay this money to Mrs. Bernard on account. It was then that Judge Ellsworth took occasion to point out to Bernard the duties of a father to his child.

As Bernard had no income, the court could not punish him for contempt. Mrs. Bernard is a daughter of the late Governor Basil of Nevada. She resides in this city with her son.

S. F. BUTCHERS MAY STRIKE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The Bulletin today says:

On the action of tomorrow night's meeting of the Journeymen Butchers' Union of this city depends in a great measure whether or not there shall be a serious conflict in the meat trades with the journeymen and a large number of retailers ranged on one side against the wholesalers and many of their adherents among retailers on the other. The result of such a warfare would mean almost meat famine in San Francisco. Secretary Herman May, of the journeymen butchers, says:

"As to the number of working hours and the other rules advocated by the union, there is no difficulty. The fight is entirely with reference to the union cards. I think all this trouble can be amicably and easily settled if the wholesalers and the union men will get together."

LOUIS STERN KILLS HIMSELF IN BAVARIA.

NO CREEK ROUTE FOR THE S. P. NOW THEY WANT THEIR MONEY BACK

President Hays Says Boats Will Travel in the Oakland Harbor.

Hereafter, so far as the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is concerned, Oakland Harbor will not be designated as the "creek route," a misnomer in every sense of the term.

Instead of this objectionable designation the waterway will hereafter be known by the company in question as the "Oakland Harbor" route.

These facts are set forth in the following communication, which will be read with interest:

"Office of President Southern Pacific Railroad Company, San Francisco, June 8, 1901. Cruise Sharp, Board of Trade, Oakland, Cal.—Dear Sir: Referring to your favor of the 7th inst., I am informed that the designation 'creek route' as applied to the ferry service between San Francisco and Oakland did not have its origin with us.

"We have simply adopted the expression generally used in commerce where reference to that route was made.

"I am inclined to agree with you that the designation is not altogether a proper one, inasmuch as it smacks of a lack of dignity in describing the harbor of your city.

"I have instructions that, in future, time-cards, advertising matter, tickets, etc., shall be printed with the designation, 'Oakland Harbor.'

"Yours truly, 'CHARLES M. HAYS, President S. P. R. Co.'"

A LESSON IN VALUES.

DOLLAR for dollar, pound for pound, there is more in Ivory Soap than in any household soap. It is easy to find a cheap soap; but to find purity and low price in a single soap is not easy. They combine in Ivory Soap. You can afford to use it in the laundry; you can not afford not to use it elsewhere. It is vegetable-oil soap, in the cheapest form in which it can be procured. You pay nothing for a fancy box, wrapper or perfume. It is all in the soap! It floats.

OAKLAND HARBOR A KLONDIKE IN ITSELF.

Condition of City Slips Does Not Encourage the Business Men.

Secretary of State's Office is Making Golden Dollars For California.

There are frequent demands made by ship captains for room at the city wharves, which cannot be filled owing to the fact that the state and two shallow draft deep water vessels, such as the deck at Adams wharf.

(Sacramento Bee, June 7, 1901.) The Secretary of State's office is by all odds the busiest of the entire State administration these days, and as a result of the activity in that quarter the State Treasury is being greatly enriched.

Revenue For City. In discussing the matter City Wharfing, L. Bailliet said:

It is not an uncommon occurrence to find the clerks in Secretary Curry's office working far into the night, in order to keep pace with the great volume of business which now finds its way to that branch of the State's service.

Fell Into the Estuary. Lounge along the water front yesterday were treated to an amusing sight.

As a result of the action of the late Legislature in placing foreign corporations upon a plane with domestic corporations, with reference to the filing of papers with the Secretary of State, there has been an immense increase in this particular, taxing the present force in Mr. Curry's office to its utmost to keep it in hand.

Laying a Cable. Employees of the telephone company were last week engaged in laying a new cable across the estuary, near the country and wagon bridge at the foot of Webster street.

Since the amending of the law, which withdraws the special favors heretofore extended to foreign corporations, there has been a steady increase in the revenues derived from this source, strange as it may appear.

At the Shipyards. Work at the various ship yards continues uninterrupted, and to new vessels have been commenced.

Yesterday high water mark was reached, when the receipts for the office were, according to Deputy Secretary of State John Hoesch, nearly $5,000.

Deaths Reported At THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Many foreign corporations are making haste to comply with the provisions of the act relating to the manner of filing their articles of incorporation, to avoid the $500 penalty which goes into effect tomorrow.

Deputy Secretary of State John Hoesch has prepared a statement of the receipts of the office for the month of May for a series of years, which indicates clearly the increase of business for the several months of each year in proportion.

The comparative receipts are as follows: May, 1895, $1,955; 1896, $1,498; 1897, $2,021; 1898, $1,659; 1899, $2,631; 1900, $3,673; May, 1901, $15,908.

GREAT FOURTH FOR OAKLAND.

Merchants Will Make Finest Showing in the History of the City.

MANY REPORTS MADE AT THE MEETING.

At the Session of Committees Last Night Much Progress Was Made.

The rooms of the Merchants' Exchange were packed Friday night with members of the executive and sub-committees having in charge the celebration of the forthcoming anniversary of national independence.

There was evidence on every hand that the idea of holding an annual commemoration in this city of the 4th of July had, so, to speak, come to stay.

As to individuals and members of the several committees, those present were heaped up and running over with enthusiasm, energy and liberality.

UNPARALLELED INTEREST. Nothing like it has been seen in the history of such celebrations in this city, and, as a consequence, some of the sub-committees in attendance appeared to be justified in saying that the celebration in hand would excel anything of the kind ever attempted in this city before.

That means a great deal, because, several years ago, $6,500 was expended in an affair of this kind. Then, however, there was only a parade in the morning, with literary exercises in the afternoon and the afternoon and fireworks in the evening, the luminosity and variety of hues of which, however, were somewhat destroyed by a drizzle of rain.

AN ALL-DAY SHOW. The coming celebration, however, will begin at sunrise and close at midnight. It will be a "continual performance" undertaking, attractions being provided for morning, afternoon and night. The whole of Alameda county will be there, and, for the first time in the history of the oldest inhabitant, as in the time of Macbeth, when Birnamwood is said to have gone to Dunsinane, San Francisco will forego her procession and come to Oakland.

The soldiers and the other marching bodies in San Francisco have, year after year, marched on the streets over there paved with cobblestones suggestive of ostrich eggs, until they have become bunion-clad as to their extremities, out-of-plumb as to their under-pinning, and sore of heart because of the lack of appreciation of the human hedges through which they have been wont to trudge.

These will now have a chance to parade on an Oakland street as level as a plaza and as wide as a hundred var lot, and they will never march on cobble pavement again in their lives.

MONEY POURING IN. There is no question about money. It is coming in and it will continue to come in until the Finance Committee, at the head of which is Theodore Gier, says it has received enough. Everybody is being "seen," even the rich and liberal men who sleep "on nights" in Oakland and make their living in San Francisco during the day.

Some of these have already been called on, and as a member of the Finance Committee, this is a word which is used mainly by committees on subscription, when a man "comes down with" or "puts up" the amount of money which the infallible judgment of the Finance Committee decreed he should furnish for the good cause.

COMMITTEEMEN. There were present at the meeting Messrs. D. C. Brown, Craigie Sharp, Theo Gier, W. Walker, P. M. Campbell, Harry Williams, Frank Perry, Max Schluter, Harvey Sloper, Chief Hodgkins, D. Crowley, Fred Sinclair, Dave Sinclair, G. W. Arner, H. Muhr, H. C. Coward, P. M. Farwell, C. Hawbaker, J. P. Taylor, A. Schluter and others.

DECORATION. The Committee reported that they would be able to act as soon as they learned what was to be the line of march.

The Parade Committee, through Geo. W. Arner, reported that they had invited a number of organizations to take part in the parade.

ALAMEDA AND FRISCO IN LINE. For the purpose of showing how Alameda and San Francisco are combining over the regatta on Lake Merritt on the afternoon of the Fourth, Mr. Bell read the following from the Alameda Argus of last night:

"The aquatic carnival that is to be held on Lake Merritt, Oakland, on July 4th will surpass anything of the kind attempted in California. Already the splash of the oar is heard and the oarsman has buckled down to hard work."

"Over in Oakland they are enthusiastic over the affair, and it is being looked forward to as the feature of the celebration."

BIG DOINGS. The afternoon entertainment committee will manage the aquatic sports and have entered into the spirit of the affair with a vim that means that there will be big doings. They have asked the finance committee for $300. This committee is headed by S. J. Lea, a gentleman eminently qualified to direct such an affair, he being in his younger days a college oarsman. He is an untiring worker and will see that the affair is well conducted.

OLYMPICS ACCEPTED. The regatta committee of the Pacific Athletic Association met on Wednesday evening in the rooms of the Olympic Club and formally accepted the invitation to hold a regatta on July 4th on Lake Merritt under the auspices of the celebration committee of Oakland. Entry blanks will be distributed at once. The entries will close on Monday evening,

July 1st, at 8 o'clock. The committee decided that the events should consist of a four-oared barge, senior, intermediate and junior classes, single skiff and single sculler and junior classes, swimming and relay swimming races, and a water polo game. Entries must be accompanied with a fee of $2 per man as a guarantee of good faith. This will be returned to all starters. There must be at least two contestants start. No person will be permitted to row over the course and claim a prize.

"Spectators are to be afforded every opportunity of distinguishing contestants, and every single sculler must wear an official number on his back. In barge crews the number will be fastened to the backs of the coxswain and bow oarsman."

A round of applause greeted the close of Mr. Bell's reading. VEILED PROPHECY OUTDROVE.

C. H. Hawbaker said the evening parade would be a surprise and he wanted to keep it a surprise. "What he wanted was a little money for lights and fireworks. He did not know how much money would be available. But he would be satisfied with what was to be had in an equitable distribution of the funds. As regards the size of the parade, he would say that all of the features of the night display would be made by volunteers and that if there should be 2,000 night riders in San Francisco that night there would be just as many night riders here."

KENDALL'S LIBERALITY. T. M. Kendall, the well known boatman of Lake Merritt said that he would be willing to donate to the contestants in the regatta the use of his room in his house on the lake free of charge. In fact, he would be willing to devote more space if it was necessary.

Mr. Kendall's offer was received with applause. ALL OF A MIND.

Speeches of a most enthusiastic character showing that the project was booming were made by Harvey Sloper, P. M. Campbell, David Sinclair, Craigie Sharp and others and the efforts were received with applause.

P. M. Fisher sent word that after last night he would be able to attend to the business of the Press Committee, of which he is a member.

MILITARY READY. It was announced officially that Companies A and F of the National Guard in this city would take part in the morning parade, although they have been invited to take part in the celebration at Napa.

Mr. Hawbaker said that the members of the companies in question had also decided to take part in the night parade.

VOLUNTEER SINGERS. It was suggested that the Orpheus Club be invited to take part in the morning exercises after the parade.

Mr. Bell said that the Orpheus Club could not attend in a body but that members could attend in their individual capacity and would undoubtedly be glad to do so.

DECORATIONS FOR A SONG. Max Schluter said, in response to questions as to decorations, that he had several thousand yards of colored material which could be used for decoration which he would be willing to allow to be used on the Fourth for less than cost and almost for nothing.

Mr. Schluter's offer was cheered. ENTERTAINING UNIFORMED MEN. The appointment of a committee of ladies to provide refreshments for the visiting military was left over till next Tuesday night.

It was suggested that the ladies should be invited to take part in the afternoon exercises after the parade.

Can't you remember the days when all watches were made in small shops, mostly by hand, and a good one cost $200 or more? Then came the large Elgin and Waltham companies, who, by system, division and arrangement of labor and machinery, make a good watch for less than half the old way.

You can still pay the $200, if you want to, but where is the advantage?

This is true, too, of Carriages. You can give the small builder, in the old-fashioned shop, double the amount of money that is necessary to get what you want, and, of course, he can use it. On the other hand it has been made possible by large factories to build modern vehicles of all kinds at less than half the cost of the old way, and the vehicles are better, not only in style, but in workmanship and finish. Why furnish the small, out-of-date shop $200 to build a vehicle which can be built for $100 in a modern up-to-date, well-directed Carriage Factory?

ASBESTOS IN CALIFORNIA.
To discover asbestos in California of such a quality that threads of it can be drawn two and three feet means that an important new industry has been added to the resources of this State—that is, if the news from Shasta county should be confirmed. The dispatches say William Murray, a prospector of that region, has made such a find. Those who are familiar with asbestos in its natural state will be disposed to doubt the accuracy of the report, but it would not be necessary to have the mineral threads of so unusual a length to make the claim of great worth. If they were a foot long the discoverer would be certain of a fortune that would far exceed that to be derived from an ordinary gold mine. For the sake of the State, as well as for the good of Mr. Murray, it is sincerely hoped that no mistake has been made. A market for the product is always assured.
Others will now be looking for asbestos, and it is not unlikely that some veins will be found in places where nothing of the kind has been thought of. But that is not all that will result from the search, as attention will be called to many other profitable metals known to exist in this State, and the variety as well as the volume of our mineral output will be considerably increased. We have been too inclined to think that the precious metals were the only kind worthy of being searched for, and even among them we have oddly overlooked platinum, which is now worth $26 an ounce—that is, twice as much as gold. Iron is well known to be common in more than one of the counties of this State, for instance, but aside from the Clipper Gap experiment there has been no effort to make its working profitable, and lead is another neglected mineral. Let us make more use of all the advantages that nature has given us.
The organizers of the steel trust are talking of starting an international bank with a capitalization of a billion of dollars. With the billion dollars they have invested in the steel business and the billion dollars in the bank, their assets will foot up just about a billion dollars more than there are in the world, so it can be seen that some interesting financial juggling is in prospect.

MISUSING THE EYES.
When 25 per cent of the candidates for cadetship at the United States Military Academy at West Point fail to pass the physical examination on account of weak eyesight, it is proof that something is wrong with their early training. They either were too young when they learned to read, or else they were allowed to strain their eyes over improperly-printed books.
Some years ago Berlin scientists seriously discussed the advisability of changing the German text in school books to the Roman—as that used by nearly every other Caucasian nation is called. It was found, however, that the print was not so much to blame for the Teutonic children's poor eyes as was the quantity of reading made necessary by educational requirements. That is what is the matter here. Three or four books formerly constituted all that the young eye had to scan, while now each child has to study a small library and the optic has been unduly strained.
That this accounts for the noticeable increase in the wearing of glasses is unquestionable. Even twenty years ago few bespectacled young people were seen in the streets, but now we see little ones, scarcely able to walk, who have to wear glasses, and oculists and opticians abound. Much could be done, doubtless, to improve this condition of affairs if parents would force their children to take a proper attitude when reading, but a great deal more could be accomplished if the unscientific and burdensome educational system now in vogue were to be radically altered and fewer books forced upon the students.
If something of this kind is not done pretty soon the time is not far distant when 75 instead of 25 per cent of West Point candidates will be unable to pass the physical examinations, and the end will be, as in Germany, that many of our subalterns will have to go to drill with goggles as a necessary part of their equipment. Remember, too, that West Point is representative, and the chances are that in the rest of the country the conditions are fully as bad. If we do not look out, America will be known fifty years hence as a nation of spectacle-wearers.
There is a good deal of the glad hand about the interchange of compliments that is going on just now between America and England, but the right results are being obtained, and that is the main thing to be considered. With the two English-speaking nations acting in unison, there need be no fear of the "sleeping giant" of China or anywhere else, for they can outpoint the rest of the world put together, and that is evidently what they propose to do. That Anglo-American alliance that the diplomats sought to bring about a couple of years ago is being wrought in a different and surer way by the business men, for once their financial interests are in common there will be no breaking away upon any other lines.

Safe.
The little child is safe from ordinary dangers in the care of the faithful dog. But neither the dog's fidelity, nor the mother's love can guard a child from those invisible foes that lurk in air, water and food—the germs of disease. Children need to be specially watched and cared for. When there is loss of appetite, lassitude and listlessness in a child, an attempt should be made to revive the appetite and rally the spirits. In Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery parents have found an invaluable medicine for children. Its pure, vegetable character, and absolute freedom from alcohol and narcotics commend it to every thoughtful parent. It is pleasant to the taste, unlike the foul oils and their emulsions offered for children's use. "Golden Medical Discovery" makes pure blood and sound flesh, and absolutely eliminates from the system the poisons which feed disease.
Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterville, Middlesex Co., Va., whose daughter suffered from malarial poisoning and catarrh, writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I found a doctor who could cure my child. She took twelve bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery, and she is now as healthy as a horse. I thank God for your medicine."
Give the little ones Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets when a laxative is needed. They're easy to take and don't gripe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Duck are at Congress Springs.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Williams Jr. left yesterday morning for Chicago and New York, where they will spend several days at the Waldorf-Astoria before sailing for Ireland.
Charles E. Snook has gone to Buffalo as delegate to the Supreme Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, which will meet there this week.

Mrs. Captain Shaw and daughter, Miss Leon Shaw, will spend the summer at Pacific Grove.
Mrs. J. W. McQuinn and Miss Ethel McQuinn have engaged a cottage at Pacific Grove.
A number of friends gathered Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. Cushing on Clay street to bid farewell to Miss Campbell going next Monday to British Columbia and Miss Lee taking her departure on Tuesday for her home in England. Miss Lee has been visiting her brother, P. J. Lee, the manufacturer of Oakland. Among those who called Friday evening were: Miss Sussie Snook, Miss Louise Franko, Miss Elizabeth Harold, Miss Mary Harold, Miss Lulu Wood, Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Lee, Mr. Leonard, H. Keller, Harry Davis, Mr. Frank and George Cushing.

Under a canopy of white silk and satins, Miss Belle Herrscher and Abraham Greenfield were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herrscher of San Leandro. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi M. S. Levy of San Francisco in the presence of the immediate members of the family.
The bridal procession entered the large parlors of the Herrscher home promptly at the hour announced for the ceremony, the orchestra rendering the Lohengrin wedding march. In the van of the party were two little flower girls, Norma and Beatrice Lichtenstein, daintily gowned in white organdie. As they walked along they strewed flowers in the path of their followers. After them came the maid of honor, Miss Elsie Seligman, becomingly attired in white organdie and lace. Then came the groom, accompanied by Mrs. D. Herrscher of Mount Vernon, Ill., and the bride, leaning upon the arm of her cousin, Isadore Lichtenstein.
The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white silk poplin, trimmed in chiffon and satin, and wearing a train. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. Beneath the silken canopy the bride and groom stood while Rabbi Levy pronounced them man and wife.
A wedding dinner followed the ceremony, during which congratulations were showered upon the bride and groom, and messages wishing success and happiness were read from many far-away friends. Mrs. Joseph Herrscher, the hostess, wore a Persian gown of gray crepe, ornamented with diamonds. Mrs. J. H. Lichtenstein assisted, and was attired in an imported silk applique, with chiffon. She wore diamonds.
Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield left on the afternoon train for Monterey, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their future home in Pinole. Mr. Greenfield is the manager of Joseph Herrscher's business house at that place.

FIFTY NEW CARS FOR THE S. P.

President Hays Places a Large Order with an Eastern Firm.
RETURNS FROM AN INSPECTION OF ROAD.
Thirty Popular Chair Cars Are Included in the President's Order.
President Charles M. Hays of the Southern Pacific Company returned Friday evening from a tour of inspection. He was accompanied on his trip by H. E. Fitzhugh, who is shortly to fill the position of assistant to the president. General Manager Julius Kruttschnitt completed the party. While in Portland they inspected the new machine shops that have been recently erected there, and Hays expressed himself as greatly pleased with the plant. He found no fault with the way that business is conducted in the northern division.
On the way north President Hays made special inspection of the rolling stock. He found a great deal of fault, and one of his first steps on his return was to order some new passenger cars. Hays does not do things by halves and an order was sent East for fifty coaches. Thirty of these will be the new popular chair cars and the rest of the order will be made up of modern day coaches. All the cars ordered will be sixty feet long, the longest ever ordered or used by the Southern Pacific. The new cars will be used on the overland service and will certainly be an acquisition to the road.
On his way back President Hays stopped off long enough at Sacramento to pay a visit to the railroad shops. The additions to the rolling mills have been completed and they will have twice the capacity that they had in the past. A large number of men will necessarily be employed and work will be completed with greater dispatch.

READY FOR A BUSINESS LIFE.

The Evening School Class Holds
Graduating Exercises
at High School.

DIRECTOR G. H. GRAY
DELIVERS AN ADDRESS.

An Interesting Talk on the Work
Accomplished in the Night School.

Hon. Giles H. Gray, a member of the Board of Education, takes a deep interest in the Evening School. At the closing exercises of the institution Mr. Gray made the following address on behalf of the Board of Education:

This is the first occasion when the public have been invited to attend the closing exercises of our Evening School, and just what I am expected to say has not been intimated to me. But there is a subject upon which I would like to speak, and that is the importance of the Evening School and its relation to the School Department and the City School. And I want you all to know that we have an Evening School, and if you need more education, that we want you to come and join it.

"Twelve pupils have on this day finished the course of study of the Commercial Class, and are to receive at this time certificates declaring their proficiency in the work of the Commercial Department."

A COMMERCIAL CLASS.

Now, a word to the pupils who are about to graduate.

"You are all from the Commercial Class. The certificate which has been handed to you does not indicate that your education is complete; that would be impossible. There is no man whose education is complete. But you have completed the course of study in the department of this school, which you entered. There is much for you to learn yet, and having accomplished so much, it is likely you will want to study longer, and in other subjects. Earnest study brings love for more study."

"These times demand of men and women a better educational equipment than was formerly required. Now every American man and woman must have some education, and at least read, write and perform simple arithmetic problems, in order to find employment."

"The days of the wooden warship, when sailors sailed the ship, and the midshipmen and soldiers did the fighting have passed, and now every man on the ship is a fighter, most of the men must have the intelligence and training of a machinist. The intricate and complicated machines of a modern battleship require that class of men."

"Years ago a soldier was competent if he could carry a gun and shoot the trigger, now he must understand all the intricacies of the construction of a modern rifle."

"The carrier of brick and mortar to the top of a building is no longer a Hercules, but he may be a plummy if he can keep in order and operate a stationary steam engine."

"Formerly the street car could be entrusted to the care of any man who could hold the lines over a pair of old horses, but now that duty must be performed by a workman, who fully understands the laws and uses of electricity, and is a competent mechanic."

THE SCHOOL TEACHER.

Formerly a school teacher was competent to teach school if he could read, write, cipher and whip bad boys. Now no whipping is required, and a competent teacher must be a Normal School or College graduate, a qualification acquired only by years of study."

"The era of unthinking mechanics, and blind soldiers or sailors, has passed, and the demand is for men of education and with trained intelligence."

"Science is no longer the specific property of the college professor, but must be understood by every man and woman."

"Electricity was years ago represented by a kite, or a piece of silk upon a revolving glass cylinder, but now is found in countless forms of useful inventions, in our houses, in our offices, upon the streets, and at our hands everywhere."

"The telegraph, the telephone, the graphophone, the bells, the lights, the cooking, the street cars, the automobile, and many other uses, demand men and women who can do more than merely push the button. To master and understand the best forms of electrical apparatus demands a good education and a trained intellect."

TRAINING OF MIND.

"Education is the training of the mind. Books and lectures are only a part of an education. There is a growth of the mind without the school room as well as within it and beyond the teacher as well as from him."

"It is a mistake to suppose the usefulness of an education is limited to the fact, which a student can remember, and carry away with him from school. It is the mental training which is of value to the students. When the student in algebra or geometry has worked out his problem on paper, the paper has no value, but the mental training during the work of a successful solution of the problem, will remain with him, and assist to solve other problems, not only in the subjects mentioned, but in other subjects. Thus successful effort gives great pleasure and satisfaction, and is mental training, and strengthens in the student the power and habit of thinking."

So, too, when the student in manual training, at his work bench, in a shop, makes a box precisely in accordance with the blue print plan and the schedule of dimensions given to him by his teacher, the benefit to the pupil is not the value of the box, as a useful, but rather the mental training which following out accurately the instructions given to him. The mental training will enable him to make other things."

The carpenter, the machinist, and every mechanic needs and has mental training to follow the requirements of his trade. He is a student, and the teacher trained his mind when he commenced in his trade, and the sooner he will become an accomplished and expert mechanic in the trade he has selected."

Neither book study nor school discipline are the only methods of training the mind. The experience, responsibility and environment will sometimes give a man what in other men is accomplished only by years of school education."

SELF MADE MEN.

"Frequently men will claim to be self made, and declare they have never been in a school or college since they were, say twelve years old, and claim to have been successful, although they commenced life without the school trained mind, and argue from that that schooling is unnecessary. But that conclusion does not follow. For his trade, his occupation, his necessities have been training for him and enabled him to do well what he has been compelled to do, and what he might have done sooner and better if he had been better educated before he commenced his life work."

"The business of our schools is to help men and women to help themselves. To give them large, clear and vigorous minds, which will enable them to think and act with greater intelligence, in whatever sphere of life they may be placed."

EDUCATION A DUTY.

"Education adds to the pleasure of living, as well as to the usefulness of the man. It also adds to the stability of our Government, and is a guarantee for intelligent use of the ballot and intelligent participation of the man in the discussion and decision of political questions, and the old world, education endangers the throne. In our country liberty rests upon the intelligence of the people, and the more intelligence, the better is the government."

"In the old countries education is a privilege; in our country it is a duty."

"In our country every school is an insurance against anarchy, and every educated man or woman is a missionary of the stability of the Government."

"Now to those of this audience who are not pupils, and to the people of Oakland, I wish to describe our public school system and to show that the evening school is a necessary part of it, and is entitled to support as much as is the day school."

"The public school system of this State is divided into three periods of four years. The pupil is admitted to the primary school at the age of 6 years, and the courses of study are so arranged that four years are spent in primary work, and in classes known as primary grades. The next four years are for the grammar grades completing the eighth grade, and the next four years are for the high school work, which by law is required to be such a course of study as will fit and prepare the student therein, promoted from the grammar grades, to enter any of the departments of the University of California."

"The qualification to enter is fixed by the rules of the University, which must be conformed to by the High School faculty."

AS TO PROMOTION.

"In Oakland, when the pupil has finished the eighth grade, he is promoted to the Central school, where he or she has the opportunity to take either the first year of the High School course, which includes Latin, algebra, geometry, and English literature, or instead may take manual training and a commercial course, which includes work in the shops and industrial drawing for boys and cooking and sewing for girls, or for both boys and girls, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, reading, writing, spelling, typewriting, stenography, history, English literature, grammar, and composition, physics, physical geography and Spanish language—in fact, a complete equipment for a young man or woman, to fit them to commence the business of life and to earn a fair living."

"Those pupils who do not take the manual training course are expected to take in the Central school the first year of the High School course of study."

"The Central school cannot be a grammar school and be supported as such, because all the pupils have been promoted from the Grammar school, and are at least in high school subjects. The eighth grade is the highest grammar grade in the public school system."

"Therefore the city of Oakland cannot declare the Central school a Grammar school, but must support it as a High School, and turn the pupils into the street and stop keeping a High School."

"From experience in the Oakland Grammar schools it has been found that the classes of the eighth grade are of only about one-half the number of the classes of the seven grades preceding, and from the eighth grade much less than one-half of that class leave school and go to work."

"The classes of the ninth grade and of the High School are before the end of the High School course yet more reduced in numbers, until a very small number, compared with those who commenced in the Grammar school, enter the University."

"There are many causes for such diminution of classes, but the principal is the necessity for the child to aid in the support of the family of which he is a part. The boys become cash boys, newspaper carriers, messenger boys, telegraph boys and the like. Many boys leave school for work because study is distasteful to them, such boys after a while are apt to want to return and resume their studies and they are provided for in the Evening School."

EVENING SCHOOL DIFFERS.

"The Evening school differs from the day school both in its methods of teaching and in its class of pupils."

"Like the day school, it is conducted for forty-two weeks in the year, and for five evenings in the week, and its teachers must be well qualified."

"But the ages of the pupils range from 12 to 40 years and the personnel is different. The careless and indifferent pupil is absent, and every pupil before coming to the school has usually been at work all day and is at school encroaching upon his well earned hours of rest and recreation. Sometimes the younger boys are too tired for study and unintentionally drop off to sleep for a moment while at study."

"Every pupil has his separate desk, and most of the pupils require individual instruction. There are no classes, as the measure of advancement and progress differs with each pupil."

"The class rooms are quiet and orderly, while the teacher during the entire session moves quickly from one pupil to another answering questions and pointing out mistakes."

"A stranger entering the class room would be hardly noticed."

"One evening of each week the professor of penmanship gives instruction, illustrated upon the blackboard."

THE PUPIL.

"At present there are five classes or departments, of which the first is the primary. This is the A B C class, and the pupils range from the age of 12 to 15 years. There are many foreigners in this class, but no Chinese."

"Here is a man of more than fifty years learning to read, but making very slow progress. He hopes to take a Civil Service examination and to learn to read his Bible at his own cabin. He comes every night all the way from East Oakland. He is improving slowly, and not as fast as he would if he were young and was accustomed to study."

"That elderly man over there is an old sea captain of 60 years of age. He is learning arithmetic, he cannot read very well, newspapers are strange to him."

"Those two young girls over there, aged about 22 years, come every night. They are learning to read; they can earn better wages if they can read and write fluently and easily, and that is what they come for."

"Every pupil has a reason for coming and an incentive to study or an object in view."

"The next class is equivalent to the second grade grammar day school, and is composed mainly of boys who have dropped out of the Grammar schools to work for wages and find that more education is necessary."

"The next class is equivalent to the eighth grade grammar day school, and is also composed mainly of boys who have dropped out of the day schools from necessity."

"The fourth class is for teaching the subjects usually taught in the High School, and while the pupils are not preparing for the college or university they learn to study for the equivalent in conversation, in general information, to their acquaintances and associates in society and in business."

"The fifth class is known as the commercial department, in which the principal studies are bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic and English language. In this class are found many young men and women, who are employed in well known business stores or houses, and who by increasing their ability and practice in bookkeeping and arithmetic expect to obtain promotion and increased wages."

"Here, too, we find those deficient in their knowledge of English—for example, the typewriter girl who cannot spell correctly or form English sentences correctly, and who has discovered that to do her work well and get the best wages she must learn to read, spell and formulate business letters and correspondence. A poor speller will not be a good typewriter."

EDUCATION NEGLECTED.

"Many persons whose education has been neglected in their youth are restrained by pride, age and size from attending the day school, where they must take place with the small and young children, and take part in childish exercises, where they would be conspicuous and the most observed of all in the class."

"And those persons who most need the supplementary education obtainable in the Evening school are frequently too poor to pay for the tuition at a private academy or business college."

"Therefore it must be obvious that the Evening school is a necessary and important supplement to the day school and should be and is a part of the public school system of Oakland."

"This is the opinion of the Board of Education, and in that view they have placed the facilities of the Evening school within the reach of all who need the supplementary education which it affords."

Will Wait for Union
to Act.

There was an informal meeting of liverymen on Tenth street for the purpose of exchanging views as regards uniting their stables and accepting or rejecting the demands for an increase of wages which, it is said, the journeymen hostlers are soon to make.

There were present Messrs. Kane of Kane & Daly, Remmer of the Palo Alto Stables; Carr of the Chain Stables; Gates, Bellingham, Hunt, Peterson of the Juanita, and several others.

The gathering took place in R. D. Hunter's insurance office on Tenth street between Broadway and Franklin streets. Some of the men were willing to pay their employees the increased wages asked, namely $2 per day. Others opposed the increase and others still were non-committal on the subject. The meeting adjourned without action of any kind having been taken.

CHANGES MADE IN THE SCHOOLS

Board of Education Drops Several Teachers from the Oakland Department.

RESIGNATIONS ARE
RECEIVED BY DIRECTORS.

Salaries of Some of the Teachers
Are Cut Down—Other
Changes Made.

All of the changes that THE TRIBUNE predicted would be made in the School Department were realized at the annual meeting of the City Board of Education Saturday night. All the directors were present and the lobby was crowded with instructors and friends of teachers who had come to learn the fate of some of them.

In each instance the changes were those recommended by the Classification Committee.

Teachers Resigned.

Miss Loraine Stilson of the Lafayette, Miss Olivia Day of the Tompkins, Miss Katherine D. Anderson of the Harrison and Miss Luella O. Everett of the Cole school tendered their resignations, which were accepted and their names were dropped from the list.

The three latter will shortly become brides; but it is understood that friends of Miss Stilson, who was an appointee of Dr. Wakefield two years ago, made a hard but unsuccessful fight to have her retained in the department, and that, finding the board obstinate, her resignation was proffered.

Several Were Dropped.

The following teachers were also omitted from the list appointed for the next school year: Pablo Sanchez, instructor in Spanish at the Central; J. M. Patton, instructor in French and German in the High School; Mrs. N. H. Hornick of the Lafayette grammar school, and Miss H. C. Larkin, formerly of the Lincoln grammar, who has been out on leave of absence for the past year. The substitute teacher was William W. Fogg, instructor in mathematics at the Central School, who was superseded by Miss Ethel McClymonds, who preceded him on the preferred list for that school.

Preferred List.

The following preferred list of primary and grammar grade teachers, from which the Classification Committee will fill vacancies, was also adopted: Estelle Lury, Grace M. Hostetter, Brownie Brownell, Grace E. Wasson, Minnie C. Newman, Flora E. Mitchell, Clara F. Boardman, Etta Parsons, Mrs. Ruth McClellan, Sarah V. Lurie, May L. Sellander, Vincenza Milledge, Annie O. Bennetts, Ethel Whitney, Mary C. Crawford, Ethel M. Price, Mattie Kelsey, Hanna Lorenson, Sallie H. Storrie, Anita Z. Hubbard, Mary L. A. Rhodes, Margaret M. Kennedy, Anna M. Bradley and Grace P. Meeker.

On the evening school list the sole name was that of Mrs. Mary T. Dunn.

High School Preferred.

The High School list is: Miss Lena Redington, daughter of the president of the Board of Education, who has been teaching in the Fresno High School since her graduation from the State University; Miss Mary Tyrell, now a teacher in the Durant grammar school, and a graduate from Berkeley with the class of '01; and Miss Grace Sutton.

Salaries Reduced.

A recommendation from the Finance Committee changing the salary of High School teachers on the basis of experience was adopted. It reduces the salary of teachers of five years and more from $1,440 to $1,320 per annum; and those of less than two years from $1,200 to $1,080 in the grammar and primary schools college graduates will receive $60 more annually than teachers who hold no University diploma.

High School Principal.

Chairman Fred Button of the High School Committee asked for and was granted further time in the matter of selecting a successor to Principal J. E. McChesney and Spanish Instructor Sanchez.

Vacation School.

Before the Board adjourned a petition of the Oakland Club asking that two rooms of the Tompkins school be given them free of charge for the use of the vacation school was granted, though it was understood that the ladies are to furnish their own janitor service.

NO MONEY FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

They Will Get Warrants But No
Coin Despite the Auditor's
Statement.

There is a lit of disappointed school teachers in town today. The pedagogues who teach in the High Schools thought they would get their back salaries before going off on their vacation, but they will not.

It was the statement of Auditor Breed published in the papers that led them to believe they would get their money. What they do get is warrants, not money. There is a big difference between the two, especially as the banks do not wish to discount the warrants in view of the legal complications growing out of the settlement of the city's water bills.

In brief the City Treasurer has $1,040 in the High School fund to meet demands aggregating something like $19,000. He will stop payment when this small balance is exhausted, but will register the warrants as they come to him, for future payment in case there is a transfer of money to the High School fund.

There is due the High School teachers their full salaries for April, May, and June, and eighty per cent of their salaries for March. That is more than one-third of their pay for the entire school year is still in arrears.

The general fund is heavily overdrawn which places it out of the power to appropriate the money for the teachers. The tie-up caused by the Auditor's refusal to approve the water bills has caused the complication.

The situation is this: There is an excess in the street sprinkling and other special funds sufficient to pay the High School teachers approximately provided it can be made available. But this excess is an artificial one based on the compromise effected with the Costa Company which abated its bills for May and June, provided the other ten months were paid. Now the charter prohibits the Council from transferring money belonging to any special fund so long as there are outstanding claims against it.

The Auditor has refused to approve the water bills on the ground that the compromise was illegal and that the payment would involve the violation of a court order. This action ties up the money in the special funds until there is a hearing of the mandamus proceeding brought against the Auditor. This is set for June 17th, but it may be some days longer before a decision can be had.

In the meantime there can be no transfer, because if the compromise is illegal there is no surplus to transfer. Up to noon the Auditor had not issued any warrants on the school, because, as Deputy Hannaford said, he was waiting till they all came in. However, the responsibility for the teachers not getting their money was passed up to the Council, the impression being adversely conveyed that the Council had given them their money if it chose to do so.

Treasurer Taylor said he could only pay till the High School fund was exhausted. Some of the teachers will not take an outgoing this year, and others will go on short commons. Mr. Breed feels very sad about it, so he says.

BOERS GIVEN A

From June 1 to June 9 twenty-six Boers were killed, four were wounded, 499 were made prisoners and thirty-three surrendered, and 61 rifles, 115,556 rounds of ammunition, 120 wagons and 4,000 horses were captured.

V. D. MOODY'S WILL PROBATED.

Heirs, However, Will Set Aside
the Bequests in the Document.

ONLY OUTSIDERS WILL BE PAID UNDER WILL.

When Distribution is Made the
Terms of Compromise Will Go Into Effect.

The will of the late Volney D. Moody, whose estate is valued at upwards of $600,000, was admitted to probate this morning without opposition. Letters testamentary were granted to David B. Moody, the testator's brother, and C. E. Wilson, who are named in the will as executors.

Although the will has been admitted to probate, the provisions made in it will not be carried out when the estate is distributed. The property will be distributed according to a compromise which was effected a few weeks ago between the stepmother and the children of the first marriage, when a contest to the will was threatened.

According to the terms of the will, the widow, Mrs. Mary Moody, was to have received about two-fifths of the estate. The remainder of the property, after the payment of a number of bequests to relatives, was to have been divided among the three children—William C. Moody, Nellie E. Blood and Jessie L. Appleton.

According to the compromise it is agreed that the bequests in the will to relatives shall be paid. The remainder of the estate is to be divided, one-third to the widow and two-thirds to the children.

The principal objection raised by the children to the bequests made to their stepmother in the will was that she was to receive the best part of the property. They also contended that she was left more than a fair share of the estate.

Minor bequests are to be paid as follows: To David B. Moody, a brother, the sum of $10,000, to be applied on an indebtedness of $40,500 owing from him to the testator; to David B. Moody, the sum of $10,000, to be held in trust and sum of $10,000, to be paid to a sister, Charlotte A. Purney; to George Moody, a brother, the sum of $10,000, of which $5,000 is to be applied to take up a note owing from him to the testator; to Alden Moore, a cousin, $5,000.

Outside these bequests, the property left to the widow and children is to revert to the estate and be redivided according to the compromise.

MISS CLIFT IS A BRIDE.

Pretty Wedding at the Family
Home on San Pablo
Avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Rawdon Clift became the bride of Mr. Lee Cole Burnham at noon today. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, 633 San Pablo avenue. On account of the recent death of the bride's father, the late William Clift, there was an absence of ostentation.

However, the spacious drawing room, where the ceremony was performed, was prettily, though modestly, decorated in pink and white, and the bride and groom stood beneath a scroll canopy of pink ivy geraniums.

At the wedding procession Judge Fred Clift and his mother led the way and were followed by Mr. and Mrs. Maud Searles, Little Miss Searles, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundberg, Mrs. Fred Clift and the bridal couple. The party proceeded to the drawing-room. The sweet strains of Lohengrin's wedding march were heard from the adjoining music-room.

The pretty bride, gowned in heavy white satin on train, and wedding veil, was given away by her brother, Judge Fred Clift. She carried a bunch of gladioli, and among her ornaments was a brooch of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

The Rev. Robert Ritchie, rector of St. Paul's Church, officiated and the ceremony consisted of the Episcopal service. During the ceremony the musicians played De Koven's "Oh Promise Me."

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast arranged by Malahan. Among those present were only relatives and most intimate friends. The guests were: Mrs. William Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Maud Searles, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundberg, the Little Misses Searles, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lukens, R. G. Lukens, Mr. and Mrs. Musser, Mrs. Chabot, Mrs. Robert Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Crellin, Mrs. Geo. H. Hamner, Miss Mollie Connors, Mrs. Arthur Quinn, Mrs. M. Davidson, R. M. Fitzgerald, Mrs. O. H. Burnham, Walter Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edes.

The wedding gifts were both numerous and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham left this afternoon on their honeymoon trip. Their destination is a secret.

They will make their home for the present at 633 San Pablo avenue.
